SOVIET SEEKS TO PLACATE BRITISH

CONFERENCE IS ASKED BY RUSS ON ULTIMATUM

BRITISH FORM
London, May 14.—In British official circles the reply to the Russian Soviet government to the British note is considered as avoiding a rupture. Satisfaction is expressed at what the British consider an astute face on the part of Moscow in its attitude toward Great Britain.
While the British government is ready to discuss accredited envoy, Lord Curzon is determined to maintain all the points raised in the British note and to not tolerate long discursive explanations from Moscow, it is understood.

Moscow, May 14.—Soviet Russia's note to Great Britain, the text of which was given out today, is couched in conciliatory terms. Expressing regretful surprise at the British ultimatum, it proposes a conference at the time and place arranged with England at which representatives of both governments will discuss not only the secondary questions raised in the British note but will also regulate fully the relations between Russia and Great Britain.
The note set forth what it declares are certain errors in the British charges with regard to the propaganda by Russia in the Near East.
While admitting that Russia naturally sent money to Russian representatives in Persia it says that British are over-suspicious in thinking that Russia has no use for money in the east other than for propaganda.
The note disavows responsibility for the third (Moscow) international. It offers to settle by arbitration the questions raised by Russian seizures of Russian colliers and compensation to the families of Charles Hudson, an English civil engineer, executed in Russia in 1920, and of another British subject in whose case a claim was made if the British will agree to give compensation for the long imprisonment of several Russians in England and India.

With regard to the two notes sent to England signed by "Weinstein" which Mr. Hodgson, British agent in Moscow, returned, complaining that they were couched in offensive language, the reply says the first note returned was never sent again to the British government and therefore must be regarded as extant, while the second letter did not contain anything offensive. The notes were in reply to Mr. Hodgson's protest over the execution of Monsie-nor Butchva.

CHINA'S BANDIT LIFE BARED BY PRIESTS

By NEA Service.
New York, May 14.—China has practically no professional bandits, in the sense understood in western countries.
The occupation is one which ordinarily peaceful, law-abiding farmers take to, without considering they're doing anything out of the way, whenever a crop failure makes it impossible for them to live, for a season, off the land.

Food Impelling Factor.

Throughout very large districts the country produces, under normal conditions, only just enough to scarcely support the population. If there's an extra large crop, there may be a small surplus.

If there's a partial failure, a corresponding number of people must starve, unless they overflow into other districts and forcibly take whatever they need.
A regular army of bandits could be stamped out. But it doesn't work that way. One year banditry will rise in some particular section of the country. The next year there won't be any of it at all there, but it will be rampant somewhere else.

Some civil troubles began, this condition has been aggravated by the presence of large bodies of soldiers, scattered over the whole country. An army will be recruited any in Yunnan province and sent to Hupeh, far to the northward.

Troops Unable to Cope.
The necessity for its presence in Hupeh having passed, it's simply disbanded on the spot and not the slightest thought is ever given by those who organized it to the problem of getting any of the soldiers home.

Naturally they stay in Hupeh, where they can live only by violence, since the province already has as large a population as it can support.
Or, if they go home, they can do so only by living on the country they traveled through.

Policing China, to suppress outlawry of this sort, means having forces sufficient to cope with armed bands often numbering thousands, almost anywhere at almost any time.
This, too, is in a country lacking means for the rapid transportation of troops with a population around 400,000,000 and an area nearly the size of the continental United States.

By NEA Service.
Hoboken, N. J., May 14.—Poverty—looming like a giant specter—is the direct cause lying behind Chinese banditry.

That sums up eye-witness stories of hand-to-hand contact with marauders of the type that a few days ago swept down upon a train in Shantung and carried off many Americans and other foreigners.
Word-pictures of contact with freebooters are contained in dispatches from two missionaries now in China—Rev. Raphael Vance and Rev.
Timothy McDermott, Passionist priests—to the editor of The Sign, monthly magazine of the order.

These two men have penetrated the fastness of the Shantung district, and by long experience intimately understand the psychology and motivations of the bandits, and the roving bands of pillagers.
Terrorize Populace.
"The ordinary people fear these men," Father Raphael writes, "and make little or no resistance. When the war was over, it was commonly believed that the soldiers disbanded, went to their guns and the bandit business simultaneously.
"Twice last week bandits came down from the mountains and stormed the eastern gate of the city, burning and destroying property. They came without warning. It is a daily occurrence for several of these bandits to be beheaded along the river near the mission.

Looked Upon as Gods.
"They go to their death like martyrs and are very often reputed as gods by the people and always by their fellow robbers. They have absolutely no fear of death. In one year over a thousand were summarily executed here in Yuen Chow; but their numbers are increasing alarmingly."
"Now we are expecting another more serious attack, because a few days ago their commander-in-chief was captured through treachery, and executed. Some of these chieftains have thousands of men under command in regular military fashion. Very often when the leaders make peace with the government, their men are all made regular soldiers."

"They long since have passed the asking stage. They beg no alms now. What they want they take—by force if necessary."
"Nearly all are still in uniform.
Through the southern provinces they march in military fashion, pillaging, burning, kidnapping and murdering as they move along."
Respect Old Glory.
The term soldiers and robbers has come to be synonymous to many in China. Only a few months back several thousands of these robbers besieged Yuen Chow for more than a week. They had the town cut off from all water supplies. Pestilence soon broke out causing untold hardship and misery.
"While speaking of the robbers, I

Nonpartisan League State Committee Demands Nonpartisan Leader be Turned Over
NOW "TOWNLEY ORGAN"

Basis of New Conflict Laid at Meeting, if Townley and Friends Resist

Basis of a new conflict with A. C.
Townley and the national Nonpartisan League executive committee was laid by the North Dakota league executive committee at a meeting in Fargo Saturday afternoon.

The state committee demanded that the Nonpartisan Leader, Weekly, official publication of the Non-partisan League of the State, be turned over to the state executive committee. This is the same course that the state committee pursued with the national committee in respect to the Courier-News when the last disagreement broke out between the Liedersbach and other factions of the league.

The Nonpartisan League is published under the direction of the National executive committee, of the league. It is called a "Townley Organ" by many leaguers. The league membership fee in North Dakota contributes to its support.

Townley's position has been that the state organ of the league must be kept in the national committee's hands to prevent it getting in the hands of a faction of the North Dakota league. He is, however, said to be willing to turn the Leader over to the state committee.
Chairman W. J. Church, Walter Welford and Mrs. C. A. Fisher three of the league's executive committee of five were at the meeting in Fargo. They have been criticized in respect to the sale of the Courier-News. They passed a resolution saying that "the method of sale of the Courier-News did not commend itself to the committee" but stated also that the committee had voluntarily turned the paper over to the league national committee because it could not finance it, and concluded, "We, therefore, are the last ones to criticize the sale of the paper except as to the manner in which it was consummated."

Senator Lynn J. Frazier and Chris Levang former state committeemen, were present at the meeting, which was warm in spots, according to reports. Among those who appeared before it were John Andrews, P. L.
Arrhus, John Bloom, William Lemke and N. S. Davies, the latter editor of the Nonpartisan Leader.

The entire question of a new lea-
the judgment of the individuals in the league—the committee, thus joining either endorsement of John Andrews' "Progressive" or Senator Frazier's new league daily plan. The committee declared it would go ahead with the league reorganization work.

of Tex Rickard.

FIND BODIES OF AVIATORS IN MOUNTAINS

Col. Marshall, U. S. A. of Wisconsin, and Lieut. Weber Are Dead

FLEW PLANES TOO LOW

Believed That Air Pilots Struck Tall Pine Trees Crossing Mountains

San Diego, Cal., May 14.—With the remains of two men found Saturday near the wreckage of an airplane in Cuyamaca mountain east of here positively identified as those of Col.
Francis Marshall and Lieut. Charles Weber, army officers here awaited instructions from relatives of the men before going ahead with plans for disposing of the bodies.

Lieut. Weber's father, the Rev. S.
Weber lives in Denver and learned only yesterday of the possible identification of his son's remains from the Associated Press dispatch. Col.
Marshall's home is in Darlington, Wis.

Identification of the officers' remains was completed yesterday by army officers and newspapermen who were led to the spot where the airplane and the bodies were found Saturday by W. F. McCain, cattleman.

Indications were that the airplane in which Col. Marshall and Lieut.
Weber were attempting to fly from San Diego to Tucson, Ariz., had flown too low over a pine forest and struck some of the trees and crashed to the ground. The airplane also had caught fire, presumably after it struck the ground.

As the skulls of the aviators were crushed it is believed they died instantly on striking the ground.

Floridan Towns Seek to Compel Action on Flogging in Legislature

Evidence of a strong drive on "ob-structionist members of the state senate" of Florida in the fight being made on the convict lease system as a result of exposures in the investigation into the death of Martin Ta-bert, North Dakota youth, who died in a convict lease camp in Florida, is contained in copies of a resolution adopted in a mass meeting of Hill-borough and Pinellas county citizens at Oldsmar, Florida, received at the office of Governor Nease.

Under the heading "Hold Mass Meetings to abolish the lease and lash—it is time for the people of Florida to act," the resolutions denounced both convict leasing and flogging of prisoners in unmeasured terms.

"One of these resolutions, with a report from a Tampa newspaper about the Oldsmar mass meeting, has been sent to every senator, representative, mayor, Board of Trade and newspaper in Florida," said W. E.
Bolles of Oldsmar, in a communication to the Governor.

The resolution declares that "the good people of the state of Florida, who are vastly in the majority, have been disgraced by a limited number of men who make money out of the convict lease system."
The resolution says that "we now most earnestly ask all other towns and cities in the state of Florida, to call mass meetings, to express the voice of public opinion in most clear, unmistakable and emphatic language, in order that those obstructionist members of our state legislature shall see the light of reason and common sense, and be willing to do as the great majority of the people of this good state want them to do, that is, to abolish the lease and lash system forever."

PUBLICATIONS IN CONTEST

Donald Jones, editor of "Pep" and Bruce Murphy, editor of "Prairie Breezes," Bismarck high school's two publications, will attend the Northern Intercollegiate Press Association meeting at the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, this week, and the state high school conference.

lowing an investigation into the death of Ned Thompson, an aged negro.

$2,000.

OFFICERS OF B. AND P. W. OF STATE NAMED

Minot Woman Succeeds Miss Beach of Bismarck in President's Chair

1924 MEETING HERE

Miss Julia G. McDonough of Minot was elected state president succeeding Miss H. B. Beach of Bismarck late Saturday afternoon at the closing session of the state convention of the Business and Professional Women's club in Jamestown.

Miss McDonough is a teacher of English at the Minot state normal has taken an active part in the club work and is a thoroughly efficient club leader.

Other officers elected were: Miss Madora Knox, Grand Forks, national vice president; Miss Ella Van Dam-mar, Valley City, state vice president; Mrs. James A. Murphy, Jamestown, recording secretary; Mrs. Carrie Lewis, Devils Lake, corresponding secretary; Miss Inga Nordhaug, Fargo, treasurer; Miss Mabel G.
Kunt, Dickinson, Miss Mildred
Lucas, Lisbon, regional directors.

Miss Knox is the proprietor of ladies ready to wear and millinery stores at Grand Forks and Devils Lake. Miss Von Demarus is connected with the mutual insurance agency at Valley City and Miss Lewis is a bookkeeper and accountant in the Devils Lake telephone office. Mr. Murphy conducts the Murphy shorthand school at Jamestown.

Miss Beach Honored

Miss Beach, the retiring president, was presented with the federation pin at the afternoon session in acknowledgement of her two years of faithful service.

The resolutions committee went on record as favoring the strict enforcement of the laws passed by the 1923 legislature recommended by the children's code commission, especially relative to the compulsory school attendance. The state federation is urged by the national federation to keep the boys and girls in school until they finish high school at least, and especially to keep the girls in high school.

The clubwomen also favored the formation of scholarship funds as urged by the national federation, each club to foster a state fund, to be small at first and added to each year. This fund is to be available for loaning to deserving girls and not to be charity fund. Mrs.
Forest does not favor charity in this work, it being the intention of the national federation to assist girls in securing a high school education and also on which to build a business training.

SOUTHWEST N. D. AHEAD OF OTHER SECTIONS IN SEEDING, REPORTS SAY

Good Weather of Last Few Days Has Permitted Farmers to Make Much Progress in Farm Work For the Spring and Summer Season.

Greater progress in seeding has been made by farmers in southwestern North Dakota than in any other part of the state, according to advice received here from various centers.
The good weather of the last few days has permitted farmers to make exceptional progress in this season, which is considerable ahead of the northern part of the state.

The forecast of the weather bureau for this week, however, is unsettled, showery weather the first part of the week and generally fair and normal temperature thereafter. The local forecast indicates cloudy and unsettled weather tonight and Tuesday.

Rain fell in four places in the state in 24 hours ending at 7 a. m.
today, according to the weather bureau's report. Devils Lake reported .06, Ellendale .13, Jamestown .10 and Minot .04. The highest temperature recorded during the period was 70 above at Napoleon and the lowest was 27 above at Amana.

The weather bureau's report on road conditions follows: "While local showers have interfered somewhat with highway traffic generally all main trails are in good condition and few, if any, detours are necessary. Much cleaning and dragging of cross and section line roads has been done during the past ten days and great improvement has been reported in all parts of the state."

INDICTMENTS IN BANK CASES ARGUED JUNE 5

Motion Served on Defendants For Return in Supreme Court on That Date

STATUS UNCHANGED

Conference of Supreme Court Brings No Action on Jurisdiction or Merits

Notice of a motion returnable on June 5th in the supreme court, for hearing in the state's petition for review of District Judge George McKenna's decision in quashing 35 indictments in the Scandinavian-American bank cases was forwarded today by Attorney-General George Shafer to attorneys for the defendants.

Both the question of jurisdiction of the supreme court and the merits of the state's declaration that the indictments should be reinstated will be argued on that day, the first day of the June term.

Attorney-General Shafer announced that he and George A. Bangs of Grand Forks, special assistant attorney-general, will serve a brief on the defendants' attorneys between now and June 5th, so that no delay in final determination in the matter will be occasioned because of this, after the hearing in the supreme court of the June term.

While Judge McKenna nominally is the defendant in the action, the attorney for A. C. Townley, O. E.
Loftus and other indicted in the Scandinavian-American bank "wrecking cases" are regarded as the persons who will resist the state's actions.

After the filing on Saturday by Mr.
Shafer and Mr. Bangs of a petition for review of the decision of Judge McKenna, the supreme court took the matter up in conference, and late Saturday clerk of court J. H.
Newton made the following statement:

"In State of North Dakota, ex rel.
Gep. F. Shafer, Attorney-General,
vs. The District Court of Third Judicial District, Ransom county, and Hon. Geo. M. McKenna, judge thereof, petition for original writ in exercise of superintending control filed in supreme court this day.
The Attorney-General will make and file motion, returnable June 5th, the first day of the June term, as to why writ should not be granted. In his petition should not be issued. In the meantime no jurisdiction is assumed and the matter will simply maintain its present status until such time as it is presented to the Court on the motion and a ruling made."

JUDGE NUESSE WILL SPEAK

Washburn, May 14.—W. L. Nuesse, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, will deliver the address here at the Fathers and Sons Banquet, Wednesday evening, May 16th. Judge Nuesse was a resident of Washburn from 1903 to 1913, at which time he moved to Bismarck to take up his duties as judge of the Sixth Judicial District. During his residence here he was a member of the Washburn State Bar Association and State Attorney of McLean County for four years.

The banquet is under the auspices of Fellowship Lodge No. 122, A.
F. & A. M., assisted by Washburn
Chapter O. E. S. Music will be rendered by Herfendal's orchestra and after Judge Nuesse's address a picture will be shown. A large attendance is expected.

PIRATES TAKE CHINESE SHIP

Loot European Passengers on Boat Out of Hong Kong

Hong Kong, China, May 14.—European passengers were among those terrorized and robbed, when the Chinese steamer Pailun was seized near Watow Saturday by pirates who, disguised as passengers, overpowered the crew, sailed the ship for nearly 24 hours at night without lights and finally left her yesterday at the mouth of a small bay, transferring to a junk lost valued at $6,000.

The Pailun, which was bound from Hong Kong for Shanghai, returned late yesterday afternoon.

The chief officer wounded in the foray by a pirate, was taken to a

BRITISH FORM
London, May 14.—In British official circles the reply of the Russian Soviet government to the British note is considered as avoiding a rupture. Satisfaction is expressed at what the British consider an about face on the part of Moscow in its attitude toward Great Britain.

While the British government is ready to discuss, accredited envoys, Lord Curzon is determined to maintain all the points raised in the British notes and to not tolerate long discursive explanations from Moscow, it is indicated.

Moscow, May 14.—Soviet Russia's note to Great Britain, the text of which was given out today, is couched in conciliatory terms. Expressing regretful surprise at the British ultimatum, it proposes a conference at the time and place arranged with England at which representatives of both governments will discuss not only the secondary questions raised in the British note but will also regularize fully the relations between Russia and Great Britain.

Troops Unable to Cope.
The necessity for its presence in Hupeh having passed, it's simply disbanded on the spot and not the slightest thought is ever given by those who organized it to the problem of getting any of the soldiers home.

Naturally they stay in Hupeh, where they can live only by violence, since the province already has as large a population as it can support. Or, if they go home, they can do so only by living on the country they traveled through.

Policing China, to suppress outlaws of this sort, means having forces sufficient to cope with armed bands often numbering thousands, almost anywhere at almost any time. This, too, is in a country lacking means for the rapid transportation of troops with a population around 400,000,000 and an area nearly the size of the continental United States.

By NEA Service.
Hoboken, N. J., May 14.—Poverty—looking like a gaunt specter—is the direct cause lying behind Chinese banditry.

That sums up eye-witness stories of hand-to-hand contact with marauders of the type that a few days ago swept down upon a train in Shantung and carried off many Americans and other foreigners.

Word-pictures of contact with freebooters are contained in dispatches by two missionaries now in China—Rev. Raphael Vance and Rev. Timothy McDermott, Passionist priests—to the editor of The Sign, monthly magazine of the order.

These two men have penetrated the fastness of the Shantung district, and by long experience intimately understand the psychology and motivating forces lying behind the roving bands of pillagers.

Terrorize Populace.
"The ordinary people fear these men," Father Raphael writes, "and make little or no resistance. When the war was over it was commonly believed that soldiers, disbanded, would take to their guns and the 'bandit business' simultaneously."

"Twice last week bandits came down from the mountains and stormed the eastern gate of the city, burning and destroying property. They came without warning. It is a daily occurrence for several of these bandits to be headed along the river near the mission."

Looked Upon as Gods.
"They go to their death like martyrs and are very often reputed as gods by the people and always by their fellow robbers. They have absolutely no fear of death. In one year over a thousand were summarily executed here in Yuan Chow; but their numbers are increasing alarmingly."

"Now we are expecting another more serious attack, because a few days ago their commander-in-chief was captured through treachery, and executed. Some of these chiefs have thousands of men under command in regular military fashion. Very often when the leaders of these bands are made regular soldiers, they long since have passed the asking stage. They beg no alms now. What they want they take by force if necessary."

Nonpartisan League State Committee Demands Nonpartisan Leader be Turned Over

NOW "TOWNLEY ORGAN"

Basis of New Conflict Laid at Meeting, if Townley and Friends Resist

Basis of a new conflict with A. C. Townley and the national Nonpartisan League executive committee was laid by the North Dakota league executive committee at a meeting in Fargo Saturday afternoon.

The state committee demanded that the Nonpartisan Leader, Weekly, official publication of the Nonpartisan League of the State, be turned over to the state executive committee. This is the same course that the state committee pursued with the national committee in respect to the Courier-News when the first disagreement broke out between the Liedersbach and other factions of the league.

The Nonpartisan Leader is published under the direction of the National executive committee of the league. It is called a "Townley Organ" by many leagueurs. The league membership fee in North Dakota contributes to its support.

Townley's position has been that the state organ of the league must be kept in the national committee's hands to prevent it getting in the hands of a faction of the North Dakota league. He is, however, said to be willing to turn the leadership over to the state committee.

Chairman W. J. Church, Walter Welford and Mrs. C. A. Fisher three of the league's executive committee of five were at the meeting in Fargo. They have been criticized in respect to the sale of the Courier-News. They passed a resolution saying that "the method of sale of the Courier-News did not commend itself to the committee."

Under the heading "Hold Mass Meetings to abolish the lease and lash—it is time for the people of Florida to act," the resolutions denounced both convict leasing and flogging of prisoners in unmeasured terms.

"One of these resolutions, with a report from a newspaper about the Oldsmar mass meeting, has been sent to every senator, representative, mayor, Board of Trade and newspaper in Florida," said W. E. Bolles of Oldsmar, in a communication to the Governor.

The resolution declares that "the good people of the state of Florida, who are vastly in the majority, have been disgraced by a limited number of men who make money out of the convict lease system."

The resolution says that "we now most earnestly ask all other towns and cities in the state of Florida, to call mass meetings, to express the voice of public opinion in most clear, unmistakable and emphatic language, in order that those obstructionist members of our state legislature shall see the light of reason and common sense, and be willing to do as the great majority of the people of this good state want them to do, that is, to abolish the lease and lash system forever."

New York, May 14.—Jess Willard, who scored a come-back in the ring here Saturday, and Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavy, will meet May 30, and the winner will meet Jack Dempsey Labor Day, according to plans of Tex Rickard.

The receipts at the bouts, headliners of a card staged at Yankee stadium, were $390,000, the attendance being 67,000.

Col. Marshall, U. S. A., of Wisconsin, and Lieut. Weber Are Dead

Believed That Air Pilots Struck Tall Pine Trees Crossing Mountains

San Diego, Cal., May 14.—With the remains of two men found Saturday near the wreckage of an airplane in a canyon east of here positively identified as those of Col. Francis Marshall and Lieut. Charles Weber, army officers here awaited instructions from relatives of the men before going ahead with plans for disposing of the bodies.

Lieut. Weber's father, the Rev. S. Weber lives in Denver and learned only yesterday of his son's remains from the Associated Press dispatch. Col. Marshall's home is in Darlington, Wis.

Identification of the officers' remains was completed yesterday by army officers and newspapermen who were led to the spot where the airplane and the bodies were found Saturday by W. F. McCain, cattleman.

STRONG DRIVE ON SOLONS IS BEING URGED

Floridan Towns Seek to Compel Action on Flogging in Legislature

Evidence of a strong drive on "obstructionist members of the state senate" of Florida in the fight being made on the convict lease system as a result of exposures in the investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died in a convict lease camp—Florida, is contained in a mass meeting of Hillsborough and Pinellas county citizens at Oldsmar, Florida, received at the office of Governor Noyes.

Under the heading "Hold Mass Meetings to abolish the lease and lash—it is time for the people of Florida to act," the resolutions denounced both convict leasing and flogging of prisoners in unmeasured terms.

"One of these resolutions, with a report from a newspaper about the Oldsmar mass meeting, has been sent to every senator, representative, mayor, Board of Trade and newspaper in Florida," said W. E. Bolles of Oldsmar, in a communication to the Governor.

The resolution declares that "the good people of the state of Florida, who are vastly in the majority, have been disgraced by a limited number of men who make money out of the convict lease system."

The resolutions committee went on record as favoring the strict enforcement of the laws passed by the 1923 legislature recommended by the children's code commission, especially relative to the compulsory school attendance. The state federation is urged by the national federation to keep the boys and girls in school until they finish high school at least, and especially to keep the girls in high school.

The clubwomen also favored the formation of scholarship funds as urged by the national federation, each club to foster a state fund, to be small at first and added to each year. This fund is to be available for loaning to deserving girls and not to be charity fund.

Forest does not favor charity in this work, it being the intention of the national federation to assist girls in securing a high school education and also on which to build a business training.

The resolutions also favored the continuation of the education program of the national federation, including study classes and that the individual clubs become familiar with the program sponsored by the national federation and the loan fund.

In that a request for the return of Roscoe Arburck to the screen had been made the resolutions state "that we believe if granted would be shown. A large attendance is expected."

INDICTMENTS IN BANK CASES ARGUED JUNE 5

Motion Served on Defendants For Return in Supreme Court on That Date

STATUS UNCHANGED

Conference of Supreme Court Brings No Action on Jurisdiction or Merits

Notice of a motion returnable on June 5th in the supreme court, for hearing in the state's petition for review of District Judge George McKenna's decision in quashing 35 indictments in the Scandinavian-American bank cases was forwarded today by Attorney-General George Shafer to attorneys for the defendants.

Both the question of jurisdiction of the supreme court and the merits of the state's declaration that the indictments should be reinstated will be argued on that day, the first day of the June term.

Attorney-General Shafer announced that he and George A. Bangs of Grand Forks, special assistant attorney-general, will serve a brief on the defendants' attorneys between now and June 5th, so that no delay in final determination in the matter will be occasioned because of this, after the hearing in the supreme court.

While Judge McKenna nominally is the defendant in the action, the attorney for A. C. Townley, O. E. Lofthus and other indicted in the Scandinavian-American bank "wrecking cases" are regarded as the persons who will resist the state's actions.

After the filing on Saturday by Mr. Shafer and Mr. Bangs of a petition for review of the decision of Judge McKenna, the supreme court took the matter up in conference and late Saturday clerk of court J. H. Newton made the following statement:

"In State of North Dakota, ex rel. Geo. F. Shafer, Attorney-General, et al. v. The District Court of Third Judicial District, Ransom county, and Hon. Geo. M. McKenna, judge thereof, petition for original writ in exercise of superintending control filed in supreme court this day. The Attorney-General will make and file motion, returnable June 5th, the first day of the June term, as to why peremptory writ, as prayed for in his petition should not be issued. In the meantime no jurisdiction is assumed and the matter will simply maintain its present status until such time as it is presented to the Court on the motion and a ruling made."

JUDGE NUESSELE WILL SPEAK

Washburn, May 14.—W. L. Nuessele, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, will deliver the address here at the Fathers and Sons Banquet, Wednesday evening, May 16th. PIRATES TAKE CHINESE SHIP

Loot European Passengers on Boat Out of Hong Kong

Hong Kong, China, May 14.—European passengers were among those terrorized and robbed when the Chinese steamer Paishun was seized near Watow Saturday by pirates who, disguised as passengers, overpowered the crew, sailed the ship for nearly 24 hours at night without lights and finally left her yesterday at the mouth of a small bay, transferring to a junk lot valued at $6,000.

The Paishun, which was bound from Hong Kong for Shanghai, returned late yesterday afternoon. The chief officer wounded in the forearm by a pirate, was taken to a hospital.

Most of the passengers have lost all their money and personal effects. The vessel's cargo, a valuable one, was not disturbed.

The steamer left Hong Kong with more than 100 passengers. The pirate passengers numbered about 40. When a point near Swatow was reached the buccaniers had spread into small parties as pre-arranged, worked suddenly and systematically. Soon they had the ship at their mercy.

FIRST CALL TO BOYS AND GIRLS FOR CITY BAND

First call for boys and girls for the new city juvenile band is Thursday night at 8 P. M. at the Will School.

Every boy or girl who has played in a band, has taken lessons on a band instrument, or who desires to learn more about the plan of organization is invited to the meeting. Parents also are invited.

It is hoped by band leaders that a large number will be present, and the preliminaries can be gone through with so that when Prof. Sorlien comes here he can begin instruction immediately.

The meeting was to have been Tuesday night, but is postponed until Thursday because of the Thursday musical club concert on the first named date.

might mention that the Stars and Stripes are greatly respected by them. We always hoist Old Glory on our sampans, and doubtless this fact, together with the good prayers of our friends in America, has thus far kept us out of the bandits' clutches.

"The conference in Washington, too, has done much to make relations between China and America most friendly. The Shantung question has proved to the Chinese that America's interest in her is unselfish, and that we are not all 'foreign devils'."

Employment Only Solution.

Father Timothy also has had experience with Chinese bandits. In proceeding by boat from Hongkong to Shenchow, he and a party of friends were challenged three times from the shore.

"Knowing too well what the summons would mean we kept right on going," he writes. "I remained up with the oarsmen lest they would become frightened and pull into the bandits. I was expecting to be fired upon any minute, as was Father Hippolito, an Augustinian, the last time he passed through the same locality.

"We made an excellent target as we stood there grouped together in the clear morning. But we finally got by successfully."

The missionaries unite in the belief that solutions of the whole problem lie through government intervention by supplying the roving bands of looters with employment such as road building and other public work.

Composing this delegation was Mrs. L. B. Sowles, vice president of the Bismarck Business and Professional Women's club and Miss Stassen, delegates, accompanied by Miss H. B. Beach, Misses Alfred Zuper, Evelyn Harris, Misses Hazel Nielson, Carrie Haugen, and Madge Roney.

Now, a Quick Quaker Oats

The quickest cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quaker Oats in two styles. One the kind you have always known—the other is Quick Quaker.

Quick Quaker cooks in from 3 to 5 minutes. And it cooks to perfection. So it is almost like a ready-cooked dish.

No other oat flakes on the market cook anywhere near so quickly. The two styles are identical in quality and flavor. Both are flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, savory oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these delicious flakes.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Ask for Quick Quaker if you want this style. Your grocer has both. But always get Quaker Oats for their delightful flavor.

FIRST CALL TO BOYS AND GIRLS FOR CITY BAND

First call for boys and girls for the new city juvenile band is Thursday night at 8 P. M. at the Will School.

Every boy or girl who has played in a band, has taken lessons on a band instrument, or who desires to learn more about the plan of organization is invited to the meeting. Parents also are invited.

It is hoped by band leaders that a large number will be present, and the preliminaries can be gone through with so that when Prof. Sorlien comes here he can begin instruction immediately.

might mention that the Stars and Stripes are greatly respected by them. We always hoist Old Glory on our sampans, and doubtless this fact, together with the good prayers of our friends in America, has thus far kept us out of the bandits' clutches.

The conference in Washington, too, has done much to make relations between China and America most friendly. The Shantung question has proved to the Chinese that America's interest in her is unselfish, and that we are not all "foreign devils."

Employment Only Solution.

Father Timothy also has had experience with Chinese bandits. In proceeding by boat from Hunan to Shanghai, he and a party of friends were challenged three times from the shore.

"Knowing too well what the summons would mean we kept right on going," he writes. "I remained up with the oarsmen lest they would become frightened and pull into the bandits. I was expecting to be fired upon any minute, as was Father Hipolito, an Augustinian, the last time he passed through the same locality."

"We made an excellent target as we stood there grouped together in the clear moonlight. But we finally got by successfully."

The missionaries unite in the belief that solutions of the whole guerrilla problem lies through government intervention by supplying the roving bands of looters with employment such as road building and other public work.

Illiteracy Drive

"In the drive against illiteracy in North Dakota we may suggest the addition of 'each one teach one' to the original slogan 'on illiteracy in 1924 in North Dakota.'"

Credit for obtaining the 1925 convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs for Bismarck was due to the efforts of the delegates from the local club who marshalled their forces as soon as they arrived in Jamestown and continued working for the convention until the Minot delegation had courteously withdrawn after they saw the support given the Bismarck workers by Mandan and others.

Composing this delegation was Mrs. L. B. Sowles, vice president of the Bismarck Business and Professional Women's club and Miss Stanisla Goreski, delegates, accompanied by Miss H. B. Beach, Misses Alfred Zuger, Evelyn Harris, Misses Hazel Nielson, Carrie Haugen, and Madge Raney.

Members of the publicity committee which did much to get the convention for Bismarck was composed of Mrs. Evaline Harris, Miss Madge Raney and Mrs. G. D. Mann.

"In 'Environment,' a new Principal Picture which is shown at the Capitol theatre tonight, Mr. Cummings has made a feature of extraordinary force. The story was written by Harvey Gates, an author who knows his subject matter and has translated it into terms of compelling drama—the drama of life in the underworld of a big city—the drama of a storm-tossed soul who found environment—the drama of a crook who found redemption. Now, a Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes
The quickest cooking oats in the world

Now your grocer has Quaker Oats in two styles. One the kind you have always known—the other is Quick Quaker.

Quick Quaker cooks in from 3 to 5 minutes. And it cooks to perfection. So it is almost like a ready-cooked dish.

No other oat flakes on the market cook anywhere near so quickly. The two styles are identical in quality and flavor. Both are flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, flaky oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these delicious flakes.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Ask for Quick Quaker if you want this style. Your grocer has both. But always get Quaker Oats for their delightful flavor.

ST. PAUL WOMAN GAINS IN WEIGHT AND FEELS FINE

Dyspepsia Overcome And She Can Eat Anything On The Table Now, Declares Mrs. Henningsen. Delighted with Tanlac.

"Tanlac built me up ten pounds in weight and gave me such splendid health that I feel cheerful and happy all the time now," declared Mrs. Henry Henningsen, of 297 E. Congress St., St. Paul, Minn., recently. "I had indigestion so bad that even a light meal would hurt me, but thanks to Tanlac, I am now able to eat turkey with all the trimmings and mince pie to my heart's content."

"This indigestion caused me to suffer so much I got where I dreaded to eat anything. At times sickness and eruptions made me feel uncomfortable and at the pressure of gas nearly suffocated me. Head aches, backache, and nervousness added to my misery and loss of sleep kept me feeling worn-out."

"It just seemed like there was a high wall between me and good health, until Tanlac battered down, but I am now eating heartily, sleeping fine, and doing my house work with ease. I am perfectly delighted with Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

DIPLOMAS ARE PRESENTED TO NURSES' CLASS

St. Alexius Graduates Receive Diplomas to Impressive Exercises

CHARITY, ZEAL URGED

C. F. Kelsch, Speaking to Graduates, Outlines Necessities of Life Career

"The Making of a Life Career" was the subject of the address delivered by Atty. C. F. Kelsch of Mandan to the graduating class from St. Alexius Hospital Training School Saturday evening at the Auditorium, which was filled with interested spectators. The speaker was introduced by Dr. V. J. Jones.

Baskets of beautiful pink and red roses and ferns across the front of the stage and large vases of roses at the back of the stage formed a rose garden background for the eight graduating nurses and Miss Catherine Holehouse, who were seated on the stage. The class motto, "Every Day Is Meant to Help All Lives," inscribed in Alice blue on a white card, depended from the ceiling occupied the center of the stage, beside which were draped the class colors of Alice blue and gold and two large American flags.

Excellent Program.

Preliminary to the graduation address a number of beautiful vocal, piano, and violin selections were given. St. Mary's orchestra played several artistic selections. Mrs. Frank Barnes, Mrs. Wilbur Targart and Frank Gale each received hearty applause in response to beautiful solos. The skirt dance as given by a group of little tots captivated their audience, and Miss Roberta Rest was enthusiastically cheered at the conclusion of a violin solo.

Mr. H. Scheffer sang a duet and responded with an encore number. Miss Luther Larson and Miss Irene Tavis each played charming piano solos. Mrs. Bauer and Mrs. DeLiguori played the accompaniments for the vocalists and dancers.

In opening his address Mr. Kelsch stated that he did not presume to give the members of the graduating class any advice in regard to their professions because their medical advisors had done this with understanding far superior to his, but that he hoped to say a few things about a career that might be remembered by them and used to advantage.

"The art of noble thinking and right living is the greatest thing in life," said Mr. Kelsch.

In order to gain this he said that knowledge was the first essential and common sense an indispensable part. He said that if one had professional knowledge and combined it with a purpose or an aim in life, the individual could not but attain his goal. To accomplish this, however, he said that honest hard toil and enthusiasm were indispensable requisites. Enthusiasm is the force which compels you on and up, declared Mr. Kelsch, combined with will power is the something which keeps you going after you think you can go further.

Urges Kindness, Charity.

In his closing remarks the speaker emphasized the necessity of kindness and charity. He said that the class motto showed that the members of the graduating class had absorbed this spirit of helpfulness toward others and would undoubtedly be given many opportunities in which to live up to the ideal expressed in their motto.

The graduates received their diplomas from the hands of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Wehrle who was assisted by Miss Holehouse.

After the last selection on the program had been given by St. Mary's orchestra an informal reception for the nurses was held at St. Alexius hospital where many friends and relatives of the graduates assembled to congratulate the nurses, who included: Mary DePlazes, Marion Heckel, Grace Hill, Gertrude Mayers, Paula Wiers, Sister M. Evangelia, and Sister M. Longina.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by the guests.

Many Faiths United in Greatest of Humanitarian Accomplishment

Top row, left to right: Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, General Secretary, Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, Executive Head of Papal Relief in Russia, representing National Catholic Welfare Council. Dr. John A. Morehead, Director for Europe, National Lutheran Council. C. V. Hibbard, Associate General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Center row: John Barton Wayne, Chairman, American Red Cross. Herbert Hoover, Chairman, American Relief Administration. Felix M. Warburg, Chairman, American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. Bottom row: Mrs. Elizabeth Boies Cotton, Secretary for European Interests, National Board Y. W. C. A. George Repp, General Secretary, American Volga Relief Society. Rev. Levi Mumaw, Secretary-Treasurer, Mennonite Central Committee. Hoyt E. Porter, Russian representative of American Baptists.

The American Relief Administration credits no small part of its success to the fact that it has had the full co-operation of other American philanthropic and religious organizations, representing many varying phases of religious belief but solidly united in their humanitarian purposes. Jews and Gentiles, Catholics and Protestants, all found a place in the non-sectarian, non-political, non-racial and purely American plan of operation adopted by the A. R. A., and all worked together in thorough harmony. By the united efforts of the A. R. A. and co-operating organizations which include the American Red Cross, the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the American Baptists, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the National Catholic Welfare Council, the National Lutheran Council, the Mennonite Central Committee, the American Volga Relief Society, the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association, it is estimated that 11,000,000 Russian lives were saved. This is more than 90 per cent. of all foreign relief given to Russia.

Mr. Hoover stated in a recent letter to Mr. Hibbard of the Y. M. C. A. that: "The first phase of relief—the shipment of food—will, I hope, be over with the next harvest. Though this depends upon the harvest itself. The other forms of relief—medical, poverty, reconstruction—will deservedly pull upon the heartstrings of charity for many years to come and offer an ample field for those who can devote themselves to such work. For the terrible suffering of a great people groping for freedom from centuries of wrong must enlist the sympathy of every well-thinking person. But one essential is critically necessary; in order that such American effort shall be in responsible hands and not exhausted in propaganda, it should be administered through some of the above religious bodies."

Ten Per Cent. of Funds Mobilized By American Relief Administration For Russia Went For Medical Aid

When Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Administration, announced recently that the sum mobilized for Russian Relief by the American Relief Administration and its co-operating agencies amounted to approximately $70,000,000, few persons realized that more than ten per cent. of that sum, or more than $7,000,000, was spent for medical purposes.

In the face of the terrible famine conditions which existed and the fact that it fell to the lot of the A. R. A. to provide food for upwards of ten million people, the medical phase of the relief operations has not attracted the public attention that such a life-saving effort would otherwise have received. It is difficult to say whether more Russians are alive today because of American food which they received or because of the tremendous and costly fight which the American relief workers waged against the spread of infectious diseases, and the improvement in hospital and sanitary conditions which the American gifts made possible.

It is highly significant that with the inoculation and vaccination of some 7,000,000 persons in the areas where the Americans were carrying on their feeding operations there was an astonishing decrease in the high incidence of cholera, typhoid, paratyphoid and smallpox. For example, in the Kazan District where 350,000 men, women and children were inoculated against cholera and other enteric diseases, the cholera cases, which in the summer of 1921 had been reported throughout the season at the rate of 170 a day, in the summer of 1922 amounted to 276 cases, not daily but for the entire season!

But the inoculation campaign, which was the most extensive single preventive medical effort ever undertaken, was only a single item in the medical program of the American Relief Administration. In addition to inoculating 7,000,000 individuals the Administration supplied more than 12,000 Russian institutions including hospitals, orphanages, dispensaries, etc. Many of these institutions were on the point of closing their doors for lack of the most elementary necessities. Hospitals lacked medicines, syringes, clinical thermometers, hot water bags, blankets, soap, anaesthetics—some of them had to resort to newspapers for dressings because of the lack of bandages.

United States surplus army medical supplies to the extent of $4,000,000, and medical and hospital materials costing $3,800,000 were furnished by the American Red Cross to the American Relief Administration in its effort to keep the hospitals functioning in Russia when the epidemics due to the famine were threatening to depopulate the country.

and does hereby declare the principal indebtedness of $1250.00 immediately due and payable. That the assignee of the mortgage has paid the foreclosed taxes, amounting to $164.63, and that said amount is included in this foreclosure.

There will be due on such mortgage on the day of sale the sum of $1810.00, together with the costs of this foreclosure, and attorney fees.

RIFLE TEAM TO MATCHES

North Dakota Guard to Compete at Camp Perry

The North Dakota National Guard will enter a team of 12 men, and possibly a civilian team will be entered, in the national rifle matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, this year, Adjutant General Fraser announced.

The Guard team will be selected during the state encampment at Devils Lake, June 9 to 24.

The matches will be of particular interest to rifle men this year. Adjutant Fraser said, for the reason that international rifle matches will be staged at the same time, and in addition several new matches permitting match rifles, will be held. Challenges have been sent Canada, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the South American republics looking toward a revival of the Palma matches. The Adjutant General said. Two other international matches are scheduled, the free rifle matches, at 300 meters, representing the individual and team free rifle championship of the world; the small bore Dewar trophy match, representing the 22 calibre team championship of the world.

YOUR TROUBLES

The wisest thing we have read for months appears on a cigar company's calendar: "All sunshine makes a desert."

Socrates would have nodded his head and started talking for a week.

Grass and trees need sunshine, plenty of it. But if they get too much, they become parched and die. Where there's nothing but sunshine, you find a desert.

We grumble at the rain and its clouds, but without it we would soon be living in a desert, without trees, grass, water or crops. And then we, too, would die.

Wise nature works by the Law of Contrasts—action and reaction. Sunshine and rain alternate. The change of seasons goes on forever. Otherwise, there'd be no growth, no life. This applies to our personal lives, which are inexorably governed by natural laws.

We get an "off day" or a "run of bad luck." That corresponds to rains and clouds. Our sky is overcast. All looks gloomy, hopeless.

At such times, if we'd only pause to think, we'd realize that the clouds eventually will clear and the sun beam down out of a bright sky.

We crave continual happiness. But it's a good thing we don't have it. For constant happiness would soon become monotonous, we'd not be able to appreciate it, because we'd not have any contrast for comparison.

Perfect health would not bring real joy unless you had a sickness or pain to look back to and say: "Gosh, but I feel great today, compared with when I had a headache or the flu."

The psychology of lovers' bliss at "making up" after a quarrel is all a matter of this Law of Contrasts.

We cannot appreciate and enjoy prosperity unless we have hard times for comparison. That's why the man who has to fight his way up from poverty gets a thrill and enjoyment never known to the lap-dog of luxury who inherits his fortune.

Providence has a wise purpose in sending troubles to us. If we meet our troubles and annoyances philosophically, we find later that they were preparatory—to make us appreciate and enjoy the sunshine that follows the cloudy day.

"All sunshine makes a desert."

PROSPERITY

It looks as if we're on the threshold of a period of business stability such as prevailed from 1909 to 1913, comments the market letter of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, a conservative forecaster that has been hitting the nail on the head for years.

If business men and the rest of us keep our heads, this prediction can come true—prosperity continue evenly. A break, resulting in depression, is not probable unless we stampe in nervousness or inflate excessively (as we're now doing.)

INDIGESTION

Nervous dyspepsia, especially sour-stomach indigestion, is becoming common, doctors say. It's a result of the high nervous tension under which we live.

A specialist tells us that nervous dyspepsia is commonest among brain workers. They eat, then start working their minds, rushing to the brain the blood needed to digest food. If a brain worker, eat light breakfasts and lunches, heavy meal at night.

Many who think they have tortoise-rim spectacles are really wearing rims made of stuff that can catch fire and burn like celluloid.

Smokers with black-rimmed windows over their eyes should be careful of blazing matches and sparks. Remember the fate of the yokel whose celluloid collar exploded.

If you don't care to carry combustible material near your eyes ask the dealer, who claims he is selling you genuine tortoise shell, if he'll allow you to test it with a match.

P. S. Be on your guard when wearing celluloid eyeshades.

BOOM

For the second consecutive month, pig iron production in April broke all previous records. Our country now is making iron at an annual rate a tenth more than the record year 1916.

Railroads are smashing all former records in freight movement, for this time of year.

The greater the crop of nuts, the more severe the winter, instinct tells squirrels. Be a squirrel. Save for emergency.

BALANCING

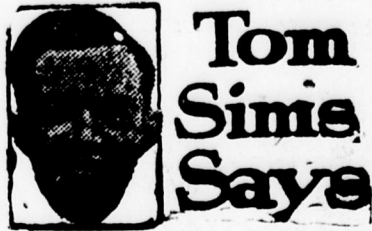

American export balance is nearing the vanishing point, business experts announce. They mean, we are buying from other countries almost as much as we are selling them. This doesn't leave much surplus to keep gold flowing out.

And it's a good thing, this restoration of balance. A nation in foreign trade is like a crossroads storekeeper—bad policy to sell, indefinitely, more than is paid back. The ideal condition is perfect balance, exports and imports equaling but never exceeding each other.

CARUSO

Inside facts about Caruso reveal that his royalties from phonograph records alone amounted to two million dollars. Pondering which, it is not hard to understand why music writers and publishers are opposed to having their wares broadcast by radio, which they claim has cut heavily into their sales and profits.

Pierre Key's new book about Caruso says he kept his own set of books "on himself," even entering tips and the smallest expenditures. He never played the stock market. By watching the pennies, he rose from extreme poverty to millionaire. Small leaks empty the largest barrel.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Raggy Land, where the Ragbies lived, being under the top of the ground, there was a little secret stairway to climb when one wished to come up into the daylight of outdoors.

So when Mister Tatters sprang lightly up the steps, Nancy and Nick followed.

They were on their way to Farmer Brown's cornfield to fix up Mr. Scare Crow for the summer.

Right after the Twins came Rag Tag and Bob Tail, two other Ragbies, who were to keep watch while they worked so that no one should surprise and stop them.

They went single file over the fence and across Bright Meadow and up the hill and through Old Orchard, and bye 'n' bye came to the cornfield.

"There's Scare Crow!" pointed Mister Tatters. "I should say he does need a new spring suit," and he pointed to a limp looking object in the middle of the field.

"Now then, Rag Tag and Bob Tail, you stay here and watch, and the rest of us will get to work."

Then Mister Tatters tiptoed to the woodshed, Nancy and Nick still close at his heels.

There stood an old broom handle that Mrs. Brown used to beat carpets. "Bring that, Nick," commanded Mr. Tatters.

Next they tiptoed to the buggyshed. "Look!" pointed Mister Tatters. "There's an old coat Farmer Brown puts on when he rides to town. We'll take it, too. Now to the barn for some straw. Also there is an old straw hat out there one of the threshers left in the fall."

An hour later Farmer Brown called to his wife. "Manda, that old Scare Crow looks like Santa Claus'd been 'round. I'm goin' out and see what's happened."

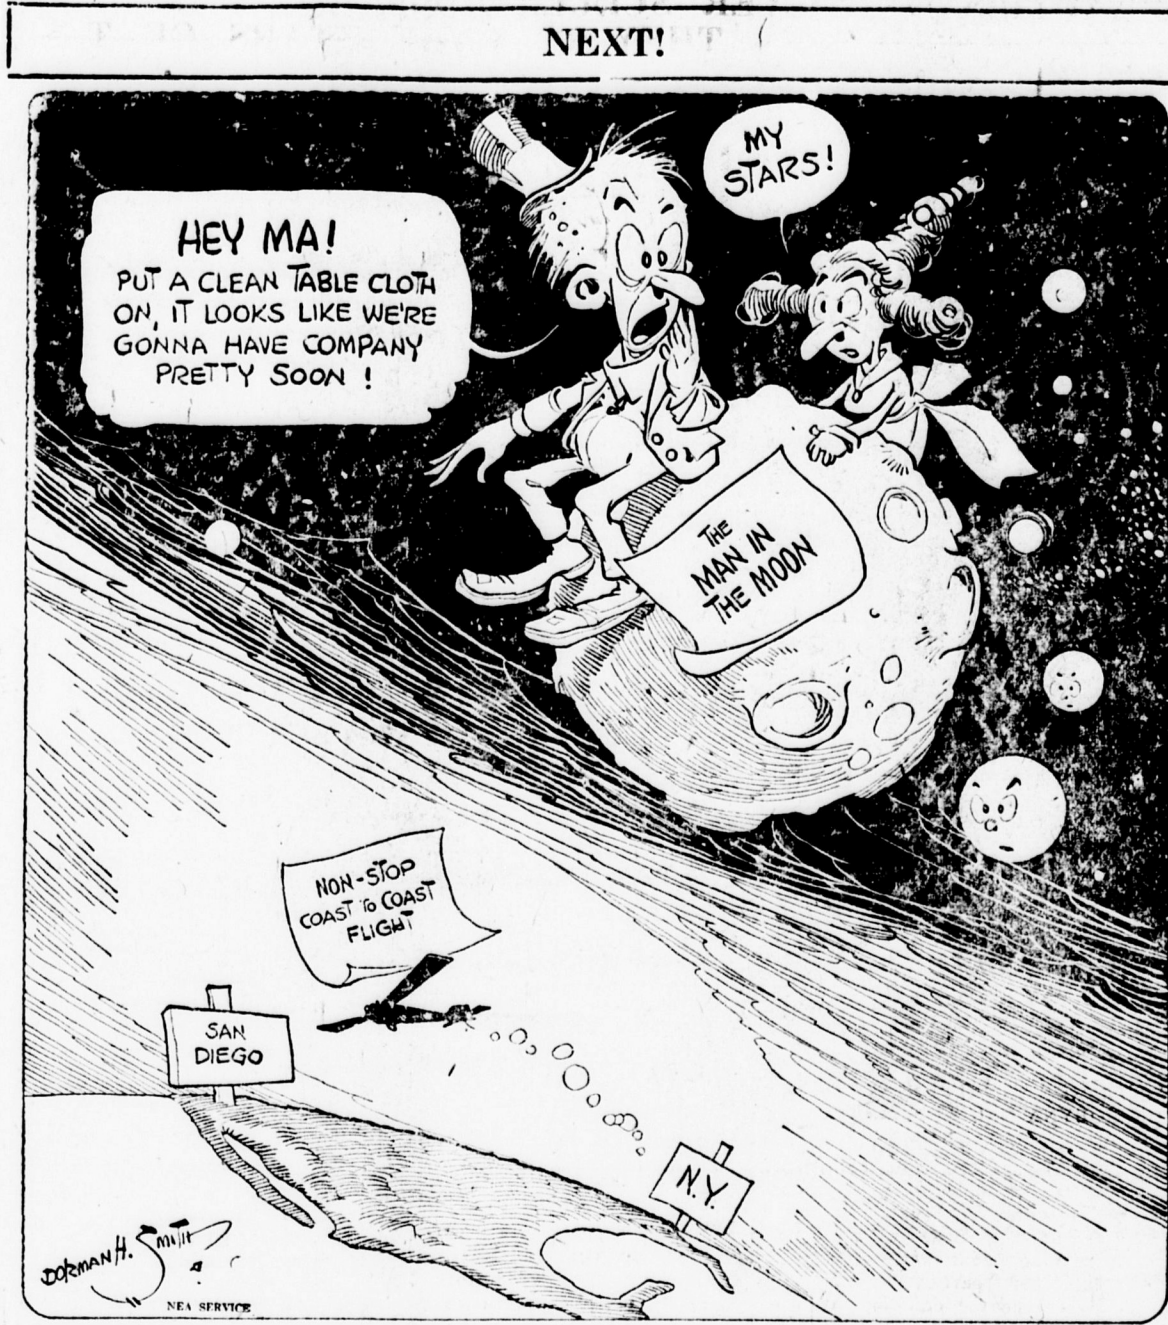

But you know, my dears, don't you? Don't you ever tell it was the Ragbies and the Twins that fixed him up.

A THOUGHT

Blessed is the man that endures temptation for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life. —James 1:12.

41,681 Ford Trucks Delivered in First Quarter Set Record

Detroit, Mich., May 12.—Sales of 41,681 Ford trucks during the first quarter, setting a new high record, bear out predictions made earlier that the use of the one-ton truck in hauling and delivery systems will be greater this year than ever before.

Not only is the Ford truck rapidly coming into more general use in the commercial field, where its dependability to all requirements make it the most popular, but throughout the agricultural sections of the country it is fast being adopted by the farmer as the best means of solving his problem for quicker and cheaper transportation of his products from the farm to the city.

March sales of Ford trucks, which reached the new high mark of 18,717, exceeded by more than 1,000 the sales of the first three months of 1922, totaling 17,588, and were 50 per cent higher than the sales in February of this year.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE.

The screen version of Major Charles G. Norris' novel, "Brass," with Monte Blue portraying the role of Philip Baldwin, comes to the Eltinge theater for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture is said to retain the vividness characteristic of the novel. The setting of the story is in sunny California, first in a prosperous rural community, then shifting to bustling San Francisco, where most of the action passes.

The queer domestic life of the young married Baldwins is the theme around which the story is spun. Philip is so busy storming the gates of fortune during the day that he longs for the home of evenings, which his wife, Marjorie, a piquant slip of a girl, doesn't see why having a baby should keep her away from cabarets, gay boon companions and a generally good time. They get divorced; each goes separate ways, falling in love but the end feeling the gap in their lives. The end is developed in a whirlwind climax. Monte Blue's supporting cast consists of Marie Prevost, Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss DuPont, Margaret Seddon, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett and Ethel Grey Terry.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO HIS NEWLYWED FRIEND
JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Although I know that no one cares for unsought advice, my dear Jack, yet I cannot see you go on the rocks without putting in my oar; so when the catastrophe comes I can say, "I told you so."

Fred Hartley called on me yesterday. He tells me that he saw you at Senter's Tea House last week with Paula Perier.

Look out, Jack! You are getting into something that you can't get out of and I know you don't want to have a smash up with Leslie.

Since I arrived home I have been thinking over the mess you got me into with your wife and I am more disgusted with you than ever. Of all ridiculous, silly, futile d— fools, Jack, you are the worst.

Now, of course, it will be the hardest thing in the world for me to meet Leslie when all the time I will be thinking that she is wondering why in the devil I put in that letter that you didn't want her to see, and if some one should happen to tell her about your "teasing" with little Perier, she will hook it up with that as sure as blazes. I wouldn't blame her a bit.

Had I been in her place, when you burned that letter I would have gone to Sydney Carton right over to face my husband and get the whole truth of the matter. As it is I am not sure that I shall not tell her the whole story, little Perier and all, when I see her.

Anyway, I am just promising you that I am coming over very shortly and hope you will be in your new apartment, for I am going to make a formal call on Mrs. John Alden.

Prescott. If I find it necessary, my boy, I shall carefully and explicitly explain to her what a confounded ass she has married.

Yours with friendliest intentions, SYD.

Letter from The James Realty Company to Mrs. John Alden Prescott

YES, I FEEL THAT I COULD GIVE YOUR DRIVE SOME MOMENTUM!!!

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Calvin Gray occupies the Governor's suite in the Ajax, the most expensive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, to the president of the largest bank and to the mayor of Dallas. The leading newspaper gives a writeup to Calvin Gray, "globe trotter, soldier of fortune and financier." To the hotel manager Gray admits that he is Colonel Calvin Gray. In the hotel dining room Gray meets an old friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas. Gray offers to go to Ranger and try to sell some valuable diamonds to Gus Briskow who has a truck oil.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
"Excellent! There no longer is any question about my going," Gray announced firmly. "I am bored; I am a thrill, of whatever sort, would stir my blood."

"Don't be silly. How could I pay you if you did go?"

"Um-m!" This idea, it seemed had not occurred to Mr. Gray. It was plain that money meant nothing to him.

"You see? We couldn't permit—" "I have it. We'll divorce friendship and sentiment entirely from the discussion and reduce it to a strictly business basis. You shall ease your conscience by paying my traveling expenses. The emotional suspense that I undergo shall be my reward. I'll take my commission in thrills."

This offer evoked a light laugh from Gray's guest. "You've got enough of 'em," he asserted. "I'll advance a mild one, on account, at this moment. Notice the couple dining at the third table to your left." Gray lifted his eyes. "What do you see?"

"A rather well-dressed, hard faced man and a decidedly attractive woman—brunette. There's a suggestion of repressed widowhood about her. It's the gown, probably. I am not yet in my dotage, and I had seen her before I saw you."

"No thrill yet."

"He's been hanging about our store for the past month, making a few purchases and getting acquainted with some of the clerks. Wherever I go, lately, there he is. I'll wager if I took tonight's train for Ranger, he'd be on it."

Calvin Gray turned now and openly stared at the effect of Covery's suspicions. There was an alert interest in his eyes. "You've cinched the matter with me," he declared, after a moment. "Get out your diamonds tomorrow! I'm going to take the night train for Ranger."

Later that evening, after his guest had gone, Gray took occasion deliberately to put himself in Mallow's way and to get into conversation with him. For the better part of an hour the two men smoked and talked, and had Covery overheard their conversation his blood would have chilled and he would have prematurely aged, for his distinguished host, Calvin Gray, the worldly-wise, suave man of affairs, actually permitted himself to be pumped like a farmer's son.

Once Gray was in his rooms, however, his manner changed, and into his eyes there came a triumphant glitter. Hastily he rummaged through one of his bags, and from a collection of trinkets, souvenirs, and the like he selected an object which he examined carefully, then took into the bathroom for further experiment.

CHAPTER III
Bob Parker Comes Home

Old Tom Parker was a "type." He was one of a small class of men at one time common to the west but now rapidly disappearing. A turbulent lifetime spent in administering the lawless region has stamped him with the characteristics of a frontier officer.

Among the late comers to Wichita Falls where he lived, Tom was known as a quiet-spoken emotionless old fellow with an honorable past. It was not generally known that he was a kind and indulgent father and had a daughter whom he worshipped with blind adulation. This ignorance was not strange, for Miss Barbara Parker had been away at college for four years now, and during that time she had not once returned home.

There was a perfectly good reason for this protracted separation of father and daughter; since Old Tom was no longer on pay, it took all he could rake and scrape to meet her bills, and railroad fares were high.

Tom carried on a nominal fire-insurance business, but as a matter of fact the tiny two-roomed frame structure that bore his painted sign was nothing more or less than a loafing place for his and his rheumatic friends.

The time came, however, when he was forced to shed his habit of slothfulness as completely as a snake sheds its skin, and that was during the week before "Bob's" arrival. Then, indeed, he swept and he dusted, he mopped and he polished, he rubbed and he scrubbed, trying his best to put the house in order.

On the day set for Bob's arrival Tom had his dishes washed and his things in order long ere the town was awake. Then he went down to the office and waited—with the jumps. Repeatedly he consulted his heavy gold watch, engraved: "With the admiration and gratitude of the citizens of Burlingame. November fifth, 1892." It was still two hours of train time when he locked up and limped off toward the station, but it was well to be there early.

Of course he met Judge Halloran on the street—he always did—and of course the judge asked when "Bob" was coming home. The judge always did that, too. Old Tom had

It was only upon occasions like this, meeting that "Bob" kissed her father for she had been reared as a boy and taught to shun emotional display.

"Oh, daddy, it has been a long time!" Those were the first words either of them had spoken.

Barbara was anything but boyish to look at; quite the opposite, in fact. She was delightfully feminine from the crown of her smart little traveling hat to her dainty French heels, and although her suit was not expensive, it was worn with an air and was perhaps as fetching as any that had ever come to Wichita Falls.

"Well, son, there's a boom on and the town has grown some; but I guess things are about the same as when you left 'em." Tom spoke with pride and satisfaction as he paid the driver, took Barbara's suitcase, and opened the gate for her.

The girl turned from her first long, appraising gaze at the modest home. No change, indeed! The paint on the house was peeling, gutters had rusted out, some of the porch flooring had rotted through, the yard was an unkempt tangle of matted grass and weeds and neglected shrubbery.

"I let Aunt Lizzie go 'bout three years back," Tom explained. "She got—shiftless and I been sort of bawling it since. Clean, though, ain't it?"

Barbara turned, blindly she walked to the center table and buried her face in a bouquet of wild flowers garnered from the yard. She held it there for a moment before she spoke. "You—didn't even forget that I love blue-bonnets, did you dad?"

Not until she had "shoed" him out and sent him downstairs, did she give way to those emotions she had been fighting this long time; then her face grew white and tragic. "Oh daddy, daddy!" she whispered. "What have I done to you?"

Tom Parker had raised his girl like a son, and like a son she took hold of things, but with a daughter's tact. Her intuition told her much, but she did not arrive at a full appreciation of the family affairs until she had the house running and went down to put his office in order. Then, indeed, she learned at what cost had come those four expensive years in the East and the truth left her limp.

Tom was mortgaged to the hilt, his royalties were pledged; a crow could not pick a living out of his insurance business.

Something had to be done, and quickly; a new house was needed to mend the family fortunes. Barbara determined to lend that hand.

"Say—" Tom's eye brightened. "I'll put a desk right alongside of mine—a little feller, just your size and a nice lounge in the back room, where you can lay down when you're tired. You been away so long it seems like I can't have you close enough." Another thought presented itself, and he manifested sudden excitement. "I tell you! I'll get a new sign painted, too! Tom and Bob Parker. Real Estate and Insurance. Oil Properties and Leases. Gosh! It's a great idea son!"

CHAPTER IV
In Ranger Town

A year before this story opens the town of Ranger, Texas, consisted of a few weatherbeaten, run-down railroad station, a blacksmith shop, and a hitching rail, to name a few, incidentally, for the limited number of people and the scanty amount of merchandise that passed through. The few farms and ranches round about were scattered widely, and life there was a grim struggle against heartbreak, by reason of the gaunt, gray, ever-present specter of the drought.

Geologists had claimed for some time that there must be coal in these north Texas counties, a contention perhaps based upon a comfortable belief in the law of compensation.

Mmes. Hollst-Floren Entertain at Pretty Bridge Luncheon

Mmes. C. M. Henry Hollst and F. A. Floren were joint hostesses at a charmingly appointed bridge luncheon at the McKenzie hotel Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Twelve tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon. The honors at cards were won by Mrs. P. C. Remington and Mrs. Thomas Hall.

Hollywood, May 14.—It has become a happy custom of the Wampas—Western Motion Picture Advertisers Association, if you just have it in full—to present thirteen comely comers in the movies at their annual frolic as "The Baby Stars" of the year.

To appreciate the full weight of their star-picking judgment and their prowess as prophets, you must know that the Wampas are those indefatigable boys vulgarly known as press agents—the boys who day by day herald the merits of their patrons from Beverly Hills to Broadway.

The Wampas constellation for 1923, just selected for demonstrated ability as well as pulchritude, are herewith presented for your inspection, pictorially and typographically:

Mrs. Peters Gives 1 o'clock Luncheon

Mrs. Frank H. Peters entertained at a 1 o'clock bridge luncheon at her home on 116 Avenue D Saturday. High score was won by Mrs. Victor H. De Bolt who was presented with a bouquet of lilies of the valley and pink roses.

Commencements In Next Week

Many Burleigh county schools will hold commencement exercises next week. Miss Madge Raney, county superintendent, will attend many of them and Miss Hazel Nielson, J. W. Riley and E. J. Taylor will speak at some of the county school exercises. Many of the Burleigh county schools have been able to classify as standardized schools and to ob-

EVELYN BRENT, born in Tampa, Fla., first appeared in Metro pictures and now with Douglas Fairbanks under long contract; Mary Pickford calls her perfect screen beauty. First appeared on stage at age of 14.

DERELYS PERDUE of Kansas City, Mo., started in pictures two years ago. Played bits with old Fox-Finns company. Now one of most promising of younger leading ladies in Robertson-Cole productions.

MARGARET LEAHY, a Londoner, who was "found" by Norma Talma recently after considerable cinema experience with English and French companies. Now appearing with Buster Keaton.

VIRGINIA BROWNE FAIRE comes from an old New York family. Her striking beauty caught attention of eastern film directors and she made her debut with the Metro Corporation. She is under contract with First National.

DOROTHY DEVORE hails from Fort Worth, Tex. Coming to Hollywood determined to enter films, she was given a try-out by Al Christie. She made good with a bang, and is regarded as one of the promising young prodigies of the Christie comedies.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN is a Quaker City girl with both screen and stage experience. From high school amateur performances she jumped to the speaking stage via a stock company, from which she found her way to the Goldwyn studio at Culver City, where she is held in high esteem.

LAURA LA PLANTE left Kansas City for a picture debut with Christie, and then moved over to the Universal lot where she has been playing leads. Kansas City sustained a great loss.

KATHLEEN KEY from Buffalo has a smile (see photo) which opened the doors of Hollywood to her on sight. Her first parts were with "Thomas H. Ince." Now she's on the road to stardom under Goldwyn direction.

JOBYNA RALSTON is one of Tennessee's choicest products. She is dispersing the naive charm of her native Cumberland through the medium of Harold Lloyd comedies. Got into films because no one had the heart to keep her out.

BETTY FRANCISCO is one of those perfect natural blondes whose beauty is the open sesame to tickle around. "Eyes, hair and other features blend perfectly," says her particular Wampas, Jesse D. Hampton found her; Goldwyn has her.

HELEN LYNCH scores heavily for Billings, Montana. She began at the bottom of the ladder on the Lasky lot and has been rapidly forging toward the top. Lasky directors are giving her every opportunity to express a variety of talent, to say nothing of looks.

PAULINE GARON came to Los Angeles from Canada with her family, and no particular desire to enter movies. Selected for a small part with First National, she photographed so well and exhibited such promise that she was persuaded by contract to remain. A real baby star!

ETHEL SHANNON is still Irish despite long residence in Denver. Hollywood hailed her with delight. She made her initial bow with Metro, and is now being directed by B. P. Shulberg in a Perfect Pictures career.

Mrs. Schlechter has been employed at the A. W. Lucas store of the city for the past three and a half years as window display manager and has accepted a similar position with the Fair Store of Valley City.

(Established 1873)

YOUR TROUBLES
The wisest thing we have read for months appears on a cigar company's calendar: "All sunshine makes a desert." Socrates would have nodded his head and started talking for a week.
Grass and trees need sunshine, plenty of it. But if they get too much, they become parched and die. Where there's nothing but sunshine, you find a desert.
We grumble at the rain and its clouds, but without it we would soon be living in a desert, without trees, grass, water or crops. And then we, too, would die.

Wise nature works by the Law of Contrasts—action and reaction. Sunshine and rain alternate. The change of seasons goes on forever. Otherwise, there'd be no growth, no life.
This applies to our personal lives, which are inexorably governed by natural laws.
We get an "off day" or a "run of bad luck." That corresponds to rains and clouds. Our sky is overcast. All looks gloomy, hopeless.
At such times, if we'd only pause to think, we'd realize that the clouds eventually will clear and the sun beam down out of a bright sky.

We crave continual happiness. But it's a good thing we don't have it. For constant happiness would soon become monotonous, we'd not be able to appreciate it, because we'd not have any contrast for comparison.
Perfect health would not bring real joy unless you had a sickness or pain to look back to and say: "Gosh, but I feel great today, compared with when I had a headache or the flu."
The psychology of lovers' bliss at "making up" after a quarrel is all a matter of this Law of Contrasts.
We cannot appreciate and enjoy prosperity unless we have had times for comparison. That's why the man who has to fight his way up from poverty gets a thrill and enjoyment never known to the lap-dog of luxury who inherits his fortune.
Providence has a wise purpose in sending troubles to us. If we meet our troubles and annoyances philosophically, we find later that they were preparatory—to make us appreciate and enjoy the sunshine that follows the cloudy day.
"All sunshine makes a desert."

PROSPERITY
It looks as if we're on the threshold of a period of business stability such as prevailed from 1909 to 1913, comments the market letter of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, a conservative forecaster that has been hitting the nail on the head for years.
If business men and the rest of us keep our heads, this prediction can come true—prosperity continue evenly. A break, resulting in depression, is not probable unless we stampeed in nervousness or inflate excessively (as we're now doing.)

INDIGESTION
Nervous dyspepsia, especially sour-stomach indigestion, is becoming common, doctors say. It's a result of the high nervous tension under which we live.
A specialist tells us that nervous dyspepsia is commonest among brain workers. They eat, then start working their minds, rushing to the brain the blood needed to digest food. If a brain worker, eat light breakfasts and lunches, heavy meal at night.

Many who think they have tortoise-rim spectacles are really wearing rims made of stuff that can catch fire and burn like celluloid.
Smokers with black-rimmed windows over their eyes should be careful of blazing matches and sparks. Remember the fate of the yokel whose celluloid collar exploded.
If you don't care to carry combustible material near your eyes ask the dealer, who claims he is selling you genuine tortoise shell, if he'll allow you to test it with a match.
P. S. Be on your guard when wearing celluloid eyeshades.

BOOM
For the second consecutive month, pig iron production in April broke all previous records. Our country now is making iron at an annual rate a tenth more than the record year 1916.
Railroads are smashing all former records in freight movement for this time of year.
The greater the crop of nuts, the more severe the winter, instinct tells squirrels. Be a squirrel. Save for emergency.

BALANCING
American export balance is nearing the vanishing point, business experts announce. They mean, we are buying from other countries almost as much as we are selling them. This doesn't leave much surplus to keep gold flowing our way.
And it's a good thing, this restoration of balance. A nation in foreign trade is like a crossroads storekeeper—bad policy to sell, indefinitely, more than is paid back. The ideal condition is perfect balance, exports and imports equaling but never exceeding each other.

CARUSO
Inside facts about Caruso reveal that his royalties from phonograph records alone amounted to two million dollars. Pondering which, it is not hard to understand why music writers and publishers are opposed to having their wares broadcast by radio, which they claim has cut heavily into their sales and profits.
Pierre Key's new book about Caruso says he kept his own set of books "on himself," even entering tips and the smallest expenditures. He never played the stock market. By watching the pennies, he rose from extreme poverty to millionaire. Small leaks empty the largest barrel.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
Raggy Land, where the Raggies lived, being under the top of the ground, there was a little secret stairway to climb when one wished to come up into the daylight of outdoors.
So when Mister Tatters sprang lightly up the steps, Nancy and Nick followed.
They were on their way to Farmer Brown's cornfield to fix up Mr. Sore Crow for the summer.
Right after the Twins came Rag Tag and Bob Tail, two other Raggies, who were to keep watch while they worked so that no one should surprise and stop them.
They went single file over the fence and across Bright Meadow and up the hill and through Old Orchard, and bye 'n' bye came to the cornfield.
"There's Sore Crow!" pointed Mister Tatters. "I should say he does need a new spring suit," and he pointed to a limp looking object in the middle of the field.
"Now then, Rag Tag and Bob Tail, you stay here and watch, and the rest of us will get to work."
Then Mister Tatters tiptoed to the wood-shed, Nancy and Nick still close at his heels.
There stood an old broom handle that Mrs. Brown used to beat carpets. "Bring that, Nick," commanded Mr. Tatters.
Next they tiptoed to the buggy-shed. "Look!" pointed Mister Tatters. "There's an old coat Farmer Brown puts on when he rides to town. We'll take it, too. Now to the barn for some straw. Also there is an old straw hat out there one of the threshers left in the fall."
An hour later Farmer Brown called to his wife. "Manda, that old Sore Crow looks like Sanny Claus'd been 'round. I'm goin' out and see what's happened."
But you know, my dears, don't you? Don't you ever tell it was the Raggies and the Twins that fixed him up.

41,681 Ford Trucks Delivered in First Quarter Set Record
Detroit, Mich., May 12.—Sales of 41,681 Ford trucks during the first quarter, setting a new high record, bear out predictions made earlier that the use of the one-ton truck in hauling and delivery systems will be greater this year than ever before.
Not only is the Ford truck rapidly coming into more general use in the commercial field, where its dependability to all requirements make it the most popular, but throughout the agricultural sections of the country it is fast being adopted by the farmer as the best means of solving his problem for quicker and cheaper transportation of his products from the farm to the city.
March sales of Ford trucks, which reached the new high mark of 18,717, exceeded by more than 1,000 the sales of the first three months of 1922, totaling 17,585, and were 50 per cent higher than the sales in February of this year.

AT THE MOVIES
THE ELTINGE
The screen version of Major Charles G. Norris' novel, "Brass," with Monte Blue portraying the role of Philip Baldwin, comes to the Eltinge theater for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.
The picture is said to retain the vividness characteristic of the novel. The story of the novel is in sunny California, first in a prosperous rural community, then shifting to bustling San Francisco, where most of the action passes.
The queer domestic life of the young married Baldwins is the theme around which the story is spun. Philip is a busy attorney, the sort of fortune during the day that he longs for the home of evenings, which his wife, Marjorie, a piquant slip of a girl, doesn't see why having a baby should keep her away from cabarets, gay boon companions and a generally good time. They get divorced; each goes separate ways, falling in love but in the end feeling the gap in their lives.
The end is developed in a whirlwind climax. Monte Blue's supporting cast consists of Marie Prevost, Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss DuPont, Margaret Redden, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett and Ethel Grey Terry.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO HIS NEWLYWED FRIEND JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT:
Although I know that no one cares for unsought advice, my dear Jack, yet I cannot see you go on the rocks without putting in my oar; so when the catastrophe comes I can say, "I told you so."
Fred Hartley called on me yesterday. He tells me that he saw you at Senton's Tea House last week with Paula Perler.
Look out, Jack! You are getting into something that you can't get out of and I know you don't want to have a smash up with Leslie.
Since I arrived home I have been thinking over the mess you got me into with your wife and I am more disgusted with you than ever. Of all ridiculous, silly, futile d— fools, Jack, you are the worst.
Now, of course, it will be the hardest thing in the world for me to meet Leslie when all the time I will be thinking that she is wondering where in the devil I put in that letter that you didn't want her to see, and if some one should happen to tell her about your "teasing" with little Perler, she will look it up with that as sure as blazes. I wouldn't blame her a bit.
Had I been in her place, when you horned that letter I would have gotten Sydney Carton right over to face my husband and get the whole truth of the matter. As it is I am not sure that I shall not tell her the whole story, little Perler and all, when I see her.
Anyway, I am just promising you that I am coming over very shortly and hope you will be in your new apartment, for I am going to make a formal call on Mrs. John Alden Prescott.
Presently, if I find it necessary, my boy, I shall carefully and explicitly explain to her what a confounded ass she has married.
Yours with friendliest intentions, SYD.

Letter from The James Realty Company to Mrs. John Alden Prescott:
DEAR MADAME:
Enclosed please find receipt for first month's rent on Apartment K, Primrose Place. Will you kindly have Mr. Prescott sign the enclosed lease?
We are very glad that you are to be our tenants for the next three years and we hope to make you perfectly comfortable during that time.
Sincerely yours, JAMES REALTY CO.

Telegram from Mrs. Joseph Graves Hamilton to Her Daughter, Mrs. Leslie Prescott: Sending you important letter special delivery today. Be sure and read and use enclosure carefully. MOTHER.

Telephone from Downstairs Desk:
"Mr. Karl Whitney calling to see Mrs. Prescott."
"Tell Mr. Whitney Mrs. Prescott will be down immediately."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Calvin Gray, who makes the Governor's suite in the Ajax, the most expensive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, to the president of the largest bank and to the mayor of Dallas. The leading newspaper gives a writeup to Calvin Gray, "Globe trotter, soldier of fortune and financier." To the hotel manager Gray admits that he is Colonel Calvin Gray. In the hotel dining room Gray meets an old friend, who is also president of the biggest money house in Dallas. Gray offers to go to Ranger and try to sell some valuable diamonds to Gus Brislow who has struck oil.
NOW GO ON WITH STORY
"Excellent! There no longer is any question about my going," Gray announced firmly. "I am bored; I am still a thrill, of whatever sort, would stir my blood."
"Don't be silly. How could I pay you if you did go?"
"Um-m! This idea, it seemed had no appeal to Mr. Gray. It was plain that money meant nothing to him."
"You see? We couldn't permit—" "I have it. We'll divorce friendship and sentiment entirely from the discussion and reduce it to a strictly business basis. You shall ease your conscience by paying my traveling expenses. The emotional suspense that I undergo shall be my reward. I'll take my commission in thrills."
This offer evoked a light laugh from Gray's guest. "You'd get enough of 'em," he asserted. "I'll advance a mild one, on account, at this moment. Notice the couple dining at the third table to your left." Gray lifted his eyes. "What do you see?"
"A rather well-dressed, hard-faced man and a decidedly attractive woman—brunette. There's a suggestion of repressed widowhood about her. It's the gown, probably. I am not yet in my dotage, and I had seen her before I saw you."
"She's living here. I don't know much about her, but the man goes by the name of Mallow."
"No thrill yet."
"He's been hanging about our store for the past month, making a few purchases and getting acquainted with some of the clerks. Wherever I go, lately, there he is. I'll wager if I took tonight's train for Ranger, he'd be on it."
Calvin Gray turned now and openly stared at the object of Gray's interest in his eyes. "You've cinched the matter with me," he declared, after a moment. "Get out your diamonds tomorrow! I'm going to take the night train for Ranger."
Later that evening, after his guest had gone, Gray took occasion deliberately to put himself in Mallow's way and to get into conversation with him. For the better part of an hour the two men smoked and talked, and had "conversational conversation." There was an alertness in his eyes, which he had chafed and he would have prematurely aged; for his distinguished host, Calvin Gray, the worldly-wise man of affairs, actually permitted himself to be pumped like a farmer's son.
Once Gray was in his rooms, however, his manner changed, and into his eyes there came a triumphant glitter. Hastily he rummaged through one of his bags, and from a collection of trinkets, souvenirs, and the like he selected an object which he examined carefully. Then he took into the bathroom for further experiment.
CHAPTER III
Bob Parker Comes Home
Old Tom Parker was a "type." He was one of a small class of men at one time common to the west but now rapidly disappearing. A turbulent lifetime spent in administering the lawless region has stamped him with the characteristics of a frontier officer.
Among the late comers to Wichita Falls where he lived, Tom was known as a quiet-spoken emotionless old fellow with an honorable past. It was not generally known that he was a kind and indulgent father and had a daughter whom he worshipped with blind adulation. This ignorance was not strange, for Miss Barbara Parker had been away at college for four years now, and during that time she had not once returned home.
There was a perfectly good reason for this protracted separation of father and daughter; since Old Tom was no longer on pay, it took all he could rake and scrape to meet her bills, and railroad fares are high.
Tom carried on a nominal fire-insurance business, but as a matter of fact the tiny two-roomed frame structure that bore his painted sign was nothing more or less than a loafing place for his and his rheumatic friends.
The time came, however, when he was forced to shed his habit of slothfulness, as completely as a snake sheds its skin, and that was during the week before "Bob's" arrival. Then, indeed, he swept and he dusted, he mopped and he polished, he rubbed and he scrubbed, trying his best to put the house in order.
On the day set for Bob's arrival Tom had his dishes washed and his things in order long ere the town was awake. Then he went down to the office and waited—waited—waited. Repeatedly he consulted his heavy gold watch, engraved: "With the admiration and gratitude of the citizens of Burlingame. November fifth, 1892." It was still two hours of train time when he locked up and limped off toward the station, but it was well to be there early.
Of course he met Judge Halloran on the street—he always did—and of course the judge asked when "Bob" was coming home. The judge always did that, too. Old Tom had

It was only upon occasions like this meeting that "Bob" kissed her father for she had been reared as a boy and taught to shun emotional display.
"Oh, daddy, it has been a long time!" Those were the first words either of them had spoken.
Barbara was anything but boyish to look at, quite the opposite, in fact. She was delightfully feminine from the crown of her smart little traveling hat to her dainty French heels, and although her suit was not expensive, it was worth an air and was perhaps as fetching as any that had ever come to Wichita Falls.
"Well, son, there's a boom on and the town has grown some; but I guess things are about the same as when you left 'em," Tom spoke with pride and satisfaction as he paid the driver, took Barbara's suitcase, and opened the gate for her.
The girl turned from her first long, appraising gaze at the modest home. No change, indeed! The paint on the house was peeling, gutters had rusted out, some of the porch flooring had rotted through, the yard was an unkempt tangle of matted grass and weeds and neglected shrubbery.
"It hasn't changed a mite," she said, bravely.
A moment later she paused upon the threshold, tense, thrilled, apparently speechless. This time it was more difficult to counterfeit an exclamation of joy.
"Why, everything is right where it belongs! How wonderfully you've kept house. You must have a perfect jewel of a girl, dad!"
"I let Aunt Lizzie go 'bout three years' back," Tom explained. "She got—shiftless and I been sort of hatching it since. Cleap, though, ain't it?"
Barbara turned, blindingly walked to the center table and buried her face in a bouquet of wild flowers garnered from the yard. She held it there for a moment before she spoke. "You—didn't even forget that I love blue-bonnets, did you dad?"
"Bob's" room was saved for the last, and Old Tom stood back, glowing at her delight. He could not refrain from showing her his blackened thumb-nail—the price of his carpentry—for he hoped he'd kiss it!
Not until he had "shooed" him out and sent him downstairs, did she give way to those emotions she had been fighting this long time; then her face grew white and tragic. "Oh daddy, daddy!" she whispered. "What have I done to you?"
Tom Parker had raised his girl like a son, and like a son she took hold of things, but with a daughter's tact. Her intuition told her much, but she did not arrive at a full appreciation of the family affairs until she had the fortune to order. Then indeed, she learned at what cost had come those four expensive years in the East and the truth left her limp.
Tom was mortgaged to the hilt, his royalties were pledged; a crowd could not pick a living out of his insurance business.
Something had to be done, and quickly; a new hand was needed to mend the family fortunes. Barbara determined to lend that hand.
After a fortnight of careful consideration she decided to enter the oil business and deal in leases.
"We'll be partners, dad. You run the insurance and I'll be the lease holder."
"Say—" Tom's eye brightened. "I'll put a desk right alongside of mine—a little feller, just your size and a nice lounge in the back room, where you can lay down when you're tired. You been away so long it seems like I can't have you close enough." Another thought presented itself. "I tell you, I'll get a new sign painted, too! Tom and Bob Parker. Real Estate and Insurance. Oil Properties and Leases. Gosh! It's a great idea son!"
CHAPTER IV
In Ranger Town
A year before this story opens the town of Ranger, Texas, consisted of a weatherbeaten, run-down railroad station, a blacksmith shop, and a hitching rail, town enough, incidentally, for the limited number of people and the scanty amount of merchandise that passed through.
The few farms and ranches round about were scattered widely, and life thereon was grim struggle against heartbreak, by reason of the gaunt, gray, ever-present specter of the drought.
Geologists had claimed for some time that there must be coal in these north Texas counties, a contention perhaps based upon a comfortable belief in the law of compensation.

MURPHY WILL MANAGE CITY BASEBALL CLUB

Well Known Business Man Asked to Handle Finance of Local Club

Directors of the Bismarck Athletic Association have asked F. W. Murphy to assume the presidency of the baseball club for the present season and Mr. Murphy has indicated a willingness to do so. The financial management of the club would be entrusted to Mr. Murphy, and every effort put forth to make the season a financial success. Directors believe that Mr. Murphy's successful business experience and ability will enable him to put the baseball club on a better basis than ever before.

Inquiries also were made by wire of Tom Shanley for manager and second baseman of the Bismarck club in the North Dakota League. Shanley is well known for playing in the past years in Bismarck and was with the St. Paul club of the American Association for two and a half months last year. He ranked as one of the best fielding and hitting second-basemen in North Dakota when he played here.

Billy Evans Says—

 The St. Louis Browns probably hold the record with four native sons on their list in Outfielder Johnny Tobin, Third Baseman Eugene Robertson, Catcher John Schulte and Pitcher Jim Elliot.

St. Louis has more players in the major league than any city, due undoubtedly to the Municipal Baseball Association in the Missouri metropolis, which consists of 224 teams, all conducted along the amateur basis with the officials sniffing at the broken-down professional.

The policy of St. Louis' Municipal Baseball Association is to develop

HITTING BASE BALL VS. GOLF BALL

Experts Disagree On Which Task Is More Difficult

TY COBB AND WALTER HAGEN.

By Billy Evans.
 Which is the harder ball to hit, a base ball thrown with the terrific speed possessed by Walter Johnson, or a golf ball resting silently on a mound of sand?

If you asked such a question of Rogers Hornsby, Ty Cobb, or any of the others great hitters, they would undoubtedly reply that the hitting of the golf ball for accuracy and distance was a much more difficult feat than connecting with Walter's fast one.

If you put such a query to Gene Sarazen, Mike Brady, Walter Hagen, Jack Hutchinson or any of the other great golfers, they would be certain to reply that hitting a golf ball was soft in comparison to solving Walter Johnson's delivery.

Swings Are Different.
 The golf swing and baseball swing are entirely different. In baseball much more depends on the body pivot than in golf. Proper rhythm

In baseball the main thing is to hit the ball. The placing is not regarded as essential as the hitting. In baseball the idea is to try to hit it safely and let it go where it will. A base hit to left field, right field or center field is equally effective.

In golf the placing of the ball is given much more consideration. Invariably the golfer has a set objective and the slicing or hooking of the ball throws him off his course.

When an iron shot is used to get on the green, the thought uppermost is to reach the green and get as close as possible to the pin, so as to be in a good position to hole out.

Not only is the golfer called upon to place the ball, but in so placing it, he must get the proper distance in order to reach the green, as well as not overrun it.

While the leading hitters in the two major leagues often seek to place the ball, in order to upset the defense the opposition has set for them, still it is a rather difficult thing to do, if the pitcher pitches properly, in order to make the batter hit the way his infield and outfield has shifted.

Then there are the exasperating shots which golf calls for that are not a part of baseball. Often a golfer hits what appears to be a beautiful ball only to find himself in a sand trap, after in an almost unplayable position.

Luck Plays a Part.
 Invariably the element of luck plays a part in such a shot. Often a ball perfectly driven will find a resting spot in some rough spot in the course that almost hides the ball from view. Such a lie naturally makes it all the more difficult to recover.

In golf, to get accuracy and distance there must be perfect co-ordination between mind, eyes, arms, legs and body. The slightest slip will prove fatal. While co-ordination is almost essential in baseball, still the possibility of getting in trouble because of some little slip is not nearly so great.

For my part I am convinced that hitting the golf ball is the more difficult job. What say you who have tried both games?

played, adding a penalty stroke to the score for the hole. If the stroke was played from the teeing ground a ball may be teed; in all other cases a ball shall be dropped.

inner defense. There are double plays that must be executed hurriedly. There are thrown balls from the catcher to handle and be put on attempted base stealers.

Some short fielders acquire more "boots" than do others. Especially is this true of a fast man because he can cover more ground and is consequently apt to make more errors for he takes more chances. But his fielding average will be as correspondingly high as a slower player afoot for he will accept more chances.

Donnie Bush, when with the Detroit Tigers, was this type of shortstop. Bush went after everything possible. Consequently, his error column figures were always high though he made up for this by cutting off many base hits which other fielders wouldn't have got.

and how can he be retired? FIVE—If a base runner in stealing second, reaches the base in safety, over slides, and is retired, does he receive credit for a stolen base?

Answers
 ONE—If while attempting a third strike, the ball touches any part of the batsman's person, he is out.
 TWO—Base runners cannot advance on a missed third strike which comes into contact with the batsman's person, the ball becomes dead.
 THREE—The infield fly rule does not apply with a runner on first only. There must be runners on first and second, or first, second and third and less than two out.
 FOUR—He can be retired by being touched with the ball, or by holding the ball on the base that he was entitled to, which was second.
 FIVE—If a base runner over slides a base that he is attempting to steal and is retired, he does not receive credit for a stolen base.

Schulte was the leading batter in the Southern Association in 1922, playing with the pennant winning Mobile club. Pitcher Elliott was the leading factor in winning the Three-Eye-League pennant for Terre Haute by winning 21 games and losing eight. Robertson, utility infielder for two seasons with the Browns, seems to have beaten Frank Ellerbe, Homer Ezzell, a $25,000 purchase from the Texas League, Sylvester Simon, Eddie Foster and Jimmy Austin in the competition for the regular job.

CHANGES LOOM IN STANDING OF BIG TEAMS

Several Teams Are Fighting Hard for the Lead as the Season Grows

Chicago, May 14—There may be some changes in the position of various leading contenders in both the American and National League when the end of this week rolls around. The New York Yankees are meeting with stiff opposition in the home of the Detroit Tigers with Cobb's men trying to pass Cleveland now 23 points ahead for second place.

Cleveland continues with Washington today while Philadelphia, in fourth place plays Chicago.

In the Nationals but 20 points separate Pittsburgh in third place from St. Louis in second while Chicago, fourth is but 22 points behind the Pirates. The Giants continued to hold a big lead, with but six games lost out of 24.

Yankees were defeated by the Tigers yesterday, 4 to 1. Over 40,000 people saw their home boys win.

The veteran Czeleskie pitched Cleveland to a 5 to 2 victory over Washington, while the White Sox nosed out the Athletics at Chicago 8 to 2. With Uurban Shocker allowing but 7 hits, St. Louis blanked Boston, 2 to 0.

There were only two games in the National. The Giants defeated Pittsburgh 9 to 0, Hugh McQuillan letting the Pirates down with two slim singles. Chicago trimmed Brooklyn 5 to 2.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit yesterday brought to 19 the number of consecutive games in which he has hit safely. Cy Williams, came through with his eighth home run of the season.

PRISON WINS FROM HAZELTON

The prison baseball team defeated the Hazelton team by a score of 11 to 10 Sunday afternoon at the prison, in a game which was a saw all the way. Schreiber and Tom McCall pitched for the winners while Andrus and Thompson pitched for the losers.

Krause denies Moug won the popular decision over him twice and lost on a foul once, as Moug's backers claim, but says he beat Moug clearly twice and boxed a no-decision bout once to a draw.

AWARD FIGHT TO JOHNSON

Havana, Cuba, May 14—The national boxing commission has awarded Jack Johnson the decision in his fifth with Farmer Lodge here May 6. The fight ended in the fourth round when Lodge said he had been fouled. Doctors found that although Lodge had been hit in the groin, dire punishment in the ribs resulted in his inability to continue the fight.

WHO PAID FOR IT?

In an authoritative magazine we read:

"A certain house eight years ago did an annual business of $3,000,000 and the cost of selling the goods amounted to 8 per cent. Good advertising has since then increased their annual business to $15,000,000 and the cost of selling, including advertising expenditures, has fallen to 5 per cent. The salesmen are earning much more money, and the advertising has enabled them to do it, because while their commissions are smaller their sales are made easier and are more than trebled in volume."

Who paid for the advertising?
 Not the consumer, for the price of the goods was less than it had been without advertising.
 Not the manufacturer, because his total selling cost was 3 per cent less.
 Not the salesmen, because they made more money.
 Who did pay, then? The same inexhaustible source upon which we draw for the cost of all progress—Old Man Waste.
 The most expensive institution we have today is the unsuccessful competitor—the business that drags along for years, eating up rent and

 It is cruel, perhaps, but true that the sooner such concerns disappear, the better it is for the public. The advertising of their more aggressive and better-organized competitors brings the end quicker. And it is the money saved by putting a stop to hordes of these petty, wasteful non-successes, which pays for the advertising and cuts down the cost of the goods you buy.

Kinks-o' the Links

Smith and Jones are in a match. Smith's ball strikes Jones' ball which is at rest on the fairway. The contact so deflects Jones' ball that a very good lie is turned into a bad one, the ball finally coming to rest in a deep rut, it being practically impossible to play out of it. Has Jones any recourse or must the happening be regarded as a "rub of the green?" Jones had a right to lift his ball and drop it without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay before being struck by Smith's ball and deflected into the rut.

If a player drives his ball out of bounds, what is the proper procedure of distinction between ball driven from the tee and fairway prior to going out of bounds?

If a ball lies out of bounds, the player shall play his next stroke as nearly as possible at the place where it lay before being struck by Smith's ball and deflected into the rut.

Questions
 ONE—If in swinging at a third strike, the ball touches the person of the batsman and goes to the grandstand, what happens?
 TWO—Have base runners the right to advance on such a play?
 THREE—Does the infield fly rule apply with a runner on first base and less than two out?
 FOUR—If a base runner after reaching second, decides to run back to first, what is his status

MARKET NEWS

OFFERINGS ARE LIGHT

Wheat See-Saws Back and Forth in Early Trading

Chicago, May 14.—With offerings light and with considerable buying on the part of shorts wheat averaged higher today during the early dealings. Some buying was based on opinion that liquidation had been through. On the other hand the general run of crop comment was favorable and price gains were checked. The opening which ranged from 3/4 cents decline to a like advance with July $1.15 to $1.15 1/4 and September $1.13 1/4 to $1.13 3/4 was followed by fractional upturns all around.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago, May 14.—Hog receipts 47,000. Opened steady to strong. Spots 5 cents higher. Later trading around steady. Top $7.95. Cattle receipts 22,000. Steers slow, killing quality plain. Yearlings comparatively numerous, early trade largely steady to 15 cents off. No choice steers sold, some held around $10.55. Beef she stock scarce, strong to unevenly higher. Other classes generally steady.

Sheep receipts 9,000. Active, fat lambs 25 to 40 cents higher. Sheep steady to strong.

Subsequently the wheat market was depressed by weakness which developed in the oats market but announcement of a substantial decrease in the visible supply for wheat helped the wheat market on the final upturn. The close was firm 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents net higher, with July $1.15 1/4 to $1.15 3/4 and September $1.13 3/4 to $1.13 3/4.

CATTLE SUPPLY SLIGHTLY LARGER

(Close of market Saturday)
South St. Paul, Minn., May 12, 1923.—The cattle run was slightly larger than last week but the demand was fully equal to the increase and the market ruled generally steady to 25 cents higher. The week's marketings totaled around 11,000 head.

Strictly choice beef steers are quotable up to $9.50 with best load lot during the week selling at $9.00. Most beef steers were of a medium grade and sold from $7.50 to $8.50, a limited number of a common grade $6.50 to $7.25.

Butcher cows and heifers closed strong to 25c higher than a week ago. Fat heifers sold largely at $6.50 to $7.50, a few up to $8.50. Fat cows brought mostly $5.00 to $6.50, a few up to $7.50. Canners and cutters sold from $2.75 to $4.00, only a few under $3.00. Bologna bulls brought $4.00 to $5.00 at the close or around 25c higher than a week ago.

Prices of best light vealers were about like last week at the close, ranging from $7.50 to $8.75 with the average cost around $7.75. Seconds or culls closed a big half dollar lower selling largely at $4.00 to $4.50.

Prices of stockers and feeders were quotable up to $8.25, bulk of stockers and feeders cashed at $6.00 to $7.75, some plain kinds down to $5.00 or less. Demand for feeding cows and stock heifers has continued active. Feeding cows sold largely at $3.50 to $4.50, stock heifers mostly $4.50 to $5.50.

Hog receipts were again heavy, totaling 64,400 compared with 50,455 a week ago and 45,862 a year ago. The market shows a net decline of about 50c for the week, closing prices being at the lowest level since early in 1922. Range at the close $6.75 to $7.10, bulk $7.00 to $7.10, pigs $6.85.

MURPHY WILL MANAGE CITY BASEBALL CLUB

Well Known Business Man Asked to Handle Finance of Local Club

Directors of the Bismarck Athletic Association have asked F. W. Murphy to assume the presidency of the baseball club for the present season and Mr. Murphy has indicated a willingness to do so. The financial management of the club would be entrusted to Mr. Murphy, and every effort put forth to make the season a financial success. Director of the club, Mr. Murphy's successful business experience and ability will enable him to put the baseball club on a better basis than ever before. Inquiries also were made by wire of Tom Shanley for manager and second baseman of the Bismarck club in the North Dakota League. Shanley is well known for playing in the past years in Bismarck and was with the St. Paul club of the American Association for two and a half months last year. He ranked as one of the best fielding and hitting second-basemen in North Dakota when he played here.

The North Dakota League has been officially recognized by the national baseball association. J. A. Farrell of New York announced Saturday, Logan Powell of Jamestown, club president, complied with the requirements. The North Dakota League, composed of Minot, Jamestown, New Rockford-Carrington and Bismarck, would play organized baseball.

Several towns in the vicinity of New Rockford and Carrington have agreed to give up local teams this season and help swell the crowd at New Rockford and Carrington.

Billy Evans Says—

How many native born players are members of the teams they represent in the major leagues?
The St. Louis Browns probably hold the record with four native sons on their list in outfielder Johnny Tobin, third baseman Eugene Robertson, catcher John Schulte and pitcher Jim Elliot.

St. Louis has more players in the major league than any city, due undoubtedly to the Municipal Baseball Association in the Missouri metropolis which consists of 224 teams, all conducted along the amateur basis with the officials snuffing at the broken-down professional.

The policy of St. Louis' Municipal Baseball Association is to develop

HITTING BASE BALL VS. GOLF BALL

TY COBB AND WALTER HAGEN.

By Billy Evans.

Which is the harder ball to hit, a base ball thrown with the terrific speed possessed by Walter Johnson, or a golf ball resting silently on a mound of sand?

If you asked such a question of Rogers Hornsby, Ty Cobb, or any of the others great hitters, they would undoubtedly reply that the hitting of the golf ball for accuracy and distance was a much more difficult feat than connecting with Walter's fast one.

If you put such a query to Gene Sarazen, Mike Brady, Walter Hagen, Jack Huchelson or any of the other great golfers, they would be certain to reply that hitting a golf ball was soft in comparison to solving Walter Johnson's delivery.

No doubt that is the way it seems to the experts in baseball and golf. But after all is said and done it is the things at which you are expert that are easy to do.

Swings Are Different.
The golf swing and baseball swing are entirely different. In baseball much more depends on the body pivot than in golf. Proper rhythm of the arms is most essential in golf. There must be perfect co-ordination to get distance and accuracy.

In baseball the main thing is to hit the ball. The placing is not regarded as essential as the hitting. In baseball the idea is to try to hit it safely and let it go where it will. A base hit to left field, right field or center field is equally effective.

In golf the placing of the ball is given much more consideration. Invariably the golfer has a set objective and the slicing or hooking of the ball throws him off his course.

When an iron shot is used to get on the green, the thought uppermost is to reach the green and get as close as possible to the pin so as to be in a good position to hole out. Not only is the golfer called upon to place the ball, but in so placing it, he must get the proper distance in order to reach the green, as well as not over-run it.

While the leading hitters in the two major leagues often seek to place the ball, in order to upset the defense the opposition has set for them, still it is a rather difficult thing to do, if the pitcher pitches

properly, in order to make the batter hit the way his infield and outfield has shifted.

Then there are the exasperating shots which golf calls for that are not a part of baseball. Often a golfer hits what appears to be a beautiful ball only to find himself in a sand trap, after in an almost unplayable position.

Luck Plays a Part.
Invariably the element of luck plays a part in such a shot. Often a ball perfectly driven will find a resting spot in some rough spot in the course that almost hides the ball from view. Such a lie naturally makes it all the more difficult to recover.

In golf, to get accuracy and distance there must be perfect co-ordination between mind, eyes, arms, legs and body. The slightest slip will prove fatal. While co-ordination is almost as essential in baseball, still the possibility of getting in trouble because of some little slip is not nearly so great.

For my part I am convinced that hitting the golf ball is the more difficult job. What any you who have tried both games?

added, adding a penalty stroke to the score for the hole. If the stroke was played from the teeing ground a ball may be teed; in all other cases a ball shall be dropped.

CHANGES LOOM IN STANDING OF BIG TEAMS

Several Teams Are Fighting Hard for the Lead as the Season Grows

Chicago, May 14—There may be some changes in the position of various leading contenders in both the American and National League when the end of the this week rolls around. The New York Yankees are meeting with stiff opposition in the home of the Detroit Tigers with Cobb's men trying to pass Cleveland now 23 points ahead for second place.

Cleveland continues with Washington today while Philadelphia, in fourth place plays Chicago.

In the Nationals but 20 points separate Pittsburgh in third place from St. Louis in second while Chicago, fourth is but 22 points behind the Pirates. The Giants continued to hold a big lead, with but six games lost out of 24.

Yankees were defeated by the Tigers yesterday, 4 to 1. Over 40,000 people saw their home-boys win.

The veteran Covelack pitched Cleveland to a 5 to 2 victory over Washington, while the "White Sox" nosed out the Athletics at Chicago 5 to 2. With Urban Shocker allow-ing 7 hits, St. Louis blanked Boston, 5 to 0.

There were only two games in the National. The Giants defeated Pittsburgh 9 to 0, Hugh McQuillan letting the Pirates down with two slim singles. Chicago trimmed Brooklyn 5 to 2.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit yesterday brought to 19 the number of consecutive games in which he has hit safely. Cy Williams, came through with his eighth home run of the season.

PRISON WINS FROM HAZELTON

The prison baseball team defeated the Hazelton team by a score of 11 to 10 Sunday afternoon at the prison, in a game which was a sea-saw all the way. Schreiber and Tom McCall pitched for the winners while Andrus and Thompson pitched for the losers.

WHO PAID FOR IT?

"A certain house eight years ago did an annual business of $3,000,000 and the cost of selling the goods amounted to 8 per cent. Good advertising has since then increased their annual business to $15,000,000 and the cost of selling, including advertising expenditures, has fallen to 5 per cent. The salesmen are earning much more money, and the advertising has enabled them to do it, because while their commissions are smaller their sales are made easier and are more than trebled in volume."

Who paid for the advertising?

Not the consumer, for the price of the goods was less than it had been without advertising.

Not the manufacturer, because his total selling cost was 3 per cent less.

Not the salesmen, because they made more money.

Who did pay, then? The same inexhaustible source upon which we draw for the cost of all progress—Old Man Waste.

The most expensive institution we have today is the unsuccessful competitor—the business that drags along for years, eating up rent and

salaries, and traveling expenses, trying to get orders that someone else can get and execute better and cheaper.

It is cruel, perhaps, but true that the sooner such concerns disappear, the better it is for the public. The advertising of their more aggressive and better-organized competitors brings the end quicker. And it is the money saved by putting a stop to hordes of these petty, wasteful non-successes, which pays for the advertising and cuts down the cost of the goods you buy.

Kinks-o' the Links

Smith and Jones are in a match. Smith's ball strikes Jones' ball which is at rest on the fairway. The contact so deflects Jones' ball that very good lie is turned into a bad one, the ball finally coming to rest in a deep rut, it being practically impossible to play out of it. Has Jones any recourse or must the happening be regarded as a "rub of the green?"

Jones had a right to lift his ball and drop it, without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay before being struck by Smith's ball and deflected into the rut.

SECOND DEATH OF STUDENT IS INVESTIGATED

Claimed That Northwestern Boy Killed by Auto Was Victim of Hazing

GRAND JURY MEETS

Ceeds at University to be Questioned in Mount Case For First Time

Chicago, May 14.—Reconvening today the grand jury will resume its investigation into the death of Leona Albert, Northwestern university freshman, who was killed about three weeks ago in an automobile accident, and announced that today it is prepared to ask the grand jury for manslaughter indictments in connection with his death.

Assistant States Attorney Scarborough said he had evidence that Albert's death occurred during a hazing episode when the car in which the student was riding was deliberately driven at another student's car for the purpose of ramming it.

Rosecoe Conklin Fitch, son of the prosecutor of Mason county, Louisiana, Mich., an old former roommate of Mount, is among the witnesses to go before the grand jury and repeat his story, that has drawn the attention of the state's attorney's office since he first was questioned Saturday night.

Fitch, the states attorney's staff, first told them he 'knew all about the Mount case' but later became hysterical, repudiated that statement and said he referred to Albert's death. An admission that he was sponsor for a movement to "hush up" the talk of the Mount case among the university students came yesterday from James Masterson, athlete and president of the senior class. He said he consulted officials at the university in regard to the plan and received their approval, it is reported.

ASK M'KENZIE ESTATE TO PAY $40,000 CLAIM

Tacoma, Washington, Attorney on His Way East to File The Claim

IS FOR A STEP-SON

A claim of $40,000 against the estate of the second Mrs. Alexander McKenzie will be filed, according to a story printed in the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, which said that Stanley Warburton, Tacoma, Washington attorney, has gone east to take up the matter with McKenzie heirs.

He is acting in the interest of Roy Tyler, formerly of Bismarck and now of Tacoma, Wash., son of the second Mrs. McKenzie. He based his contention on the ground that Mr. McKenzie had arranged to set aside a large group of bonds of the Bismarck Water Supply company for the benefit of his step-son.

The Pioneer-Press story continues: In the settlement of Mr. McKenzie's estate here, his children waived claim to $50,000 which he had willed to his wife although technically this belonged to the estate as she died a month before her husband although he did not learn of it until three days before his death.

It is from the three children of the second wife, Mrs. Elva Tyler McKenzie, a former Bismarck, N. D., resident, who died a citizen of Yonkers, N. Y., and Attorney Warburton is attempting to recover the claim of Mr. Tyler he said.

Marriage Secret 30 Years
The McKenzie estate became complicated when the existence of his second wife was discovered, his marriage having been kept a secret from even his most intimate friends for thirty years.

The North Dakota political leader was an intimate friend of the Tyler family for many years, associates said. He married Mrs. Tyler after her divorce and established a home for her in New York.

The McKenzie estate outside of the legacy to his second wife is not involved in this development, attorneys said. It affects the three New York children, Alex McKenzie, Thomas Oaks McKenzie and Jeannette McKenzie, all of Yonkers, but does not concern the children of his first marriage, Mrs. Mary B. Foster and Mrs. Ann McDonald of Canada.

MAKE PROTEST AT ACTION OF U. S. SHIP BOARD

Elimination of Canadian Lines on Great Lakes Is Argued Before Board

Washington, May 14.—The shipping board was charged with lending aid to creation of a monopoly by "one group of citizens over another group" in a brief filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Northwestern and New England shippers using Great Lakes transportation lines.

Under provisions of the merchant marine act ship-owners having established rights of the Northern Navigation and other Canadian lines from participation in traffic from between points in the United States and the shipping board at commerce hearings supported their contention. The New England traffic association and Chambers of Commerce in Boston, Duluth, Minneapolis and other cities declared that the shipping board had appeared "in a capacity that to us is most surprising."

The American shippers in the west are unanimous in demanding established rights of the Northern Navigation and other Canadian lines to participate in the business between American ports.

I. W. W. DESERT LUMBER CAMP

Portland, Ore., May 14.—Thirteen hundred and fifty employees of the Hurley-Mason Construction company, most of whom were said to be members of the I. W. Smith, time-keeper, by C. A. Phelps. A statement made by an I. W. W. organizer to I. W. W. headquarters said that from 15 to 100 armed guards had been imported into the camp and that by threats and intimidation they had forced many men to flee.

ROTHSCHILLER IN RUSSIA TO GIVE OUT FOOD

Describes Conditions of Poverty Found in Arduous Trip To Odessa

MANY INSPECTIONS

In a letter giving account of the final stage of his journey to Russia, Jacob Rothschild, President of the North Dakota Citizens' Relief association for Russia, reports a successful arrival in Odessa, where he will take charge of the distribution of food and clothing sent forward by ship from Hamburg, Germany. His journey overland which consumed a period of five weeks was not, however, without its mishaps and delays.

He left Vienna the forepart of February bound for the Polish border at Podvoloczyska, via Cracow and Lemberg. Arriving there, he was retained by the Polish military authorities five days, before officially being denied permission to cross. The Russians were favorably inclined, but the Poles found cause to dispute the validity of his passport visas, which had been previously prepared by the German Red Cross in Berlin.

A back trip was necessitated to Warsaw where the matter of obtaining further permission to cross was taken up with the American department and the central Polish authorities. After a preliminary delay of five days, during which time due to total impossibility to obtain rooming accommodations he was obliged to share those of a Cunard representative, he was notified of a final refusal to permit crossing of the Polish border into Russia. Reasoning that since the United States have no official representatives with the Soviets, in event of misfortune or loss, the Polish consul would there be occasioned responsibility and distress in rendering aid if solicited.

Poles Make Strides.
The Polish wave and rapid strides in internal organization, have plenty to eat and drink, and evidence a seeming industry and prosperity. The spirit of nationalism is very strong, and every effort is being made to prevent their country rehabilitated from suffering, at the hands of plunderers, the subjugation of the past, according to Mr. Rothschild.

A further retreat to Berlin was then necessary, where transit visas for over Lithuania and Lettland were obtained, and a new route laid out by way of Riga, Moscow. A two-days ride to Riga through a finely wooded agricultural region, visibly marked by the influence of the German economic occupation, was interrupted save by the changing of trains three times, currency twice, and passing through personal luggage inspection four times. A day's halt in Riga enabled the catching of a special courier train running between there and Moscow twice every week.

After a day and night's journey through a heavily timbered section, the Lettish-Russian border was reached. The Lettish reviewing authorities inspected briefly, but on the other side the Russians exercised a courteous rigid control. Special attention is given to literature of every description. Newspapers and periodicals are irrevocably barred, as well as other reading material not strictly private in contents. From the border to Moscow the dense forests continued and well, too, for cord wood is the sole engine fuel, an actual fact, which accounts in great part for slow time and frequent stops in which steam is raised. A marked contrast in weather had also developed, for while Mr. Rothschild departed Berlin on a warm sunny day and no snow, he arrived in Moscow in the folds of a heavy snow storm, and no signs of winter's abatement.

The most important items of a persons possessions in Russia are his proclaiming documents and credentials, therefore, Mr. Rothschild made an enforced four days stop in Moscow, the capital of the Soviet Republic, where he registered his presence and mission at several governmental bureaus, received letters of recommendation and recognition, and secured passage on a special courier to Kharkoff.

Moscow, a rapidly growing city of an estimated population of two millions, is at present a bustling commercial center. Featurely, the city is scattered over an immense uneven area, has many unique, imposing government buildings, includes the famous Kremlin section, and is notable for its collection of 450 colored, picturesque churches.

The next point on Mr. Rothschild's journey was Kharkoff, the capital of the Ukraine, two nights and a day distant. Another halt of five days occurred permitting time necessary to secure an extension of the Ukrainian visa for one month, permission to receive and distribute goods as a charitable undertaking, an order to enable bringing the goods through the customs without delay, a special allowance to cross the Roumanian frontier on the return journey, registration with the police authorities, and finally passage on a special train to Odessa.

Displays Poverty.
Kharkoff, also a city swollen by a newly acquired citizenry, displays poverty more accentuated than in Moscow. Three hundred miles to the South and in March, the spring thaw had arrived with all its dirt and slush. Three hundred thousand people live there in two crowded quarters, famine attracts population to centers. Kharkoff is now an overgrown trading hub, it lacks buildings requisite to the housing of its governmental assemblies, hotels and large residences have been requisitioned to meet the demand. The people presented an appearance of hardship and ruin experienced, hunger and cold still not appeased, yet also a spirit of perseverance and endurance which is said to be going

PASS ANTI-LASH BILL.
The banning of all forms of corporal punishment of prisoners in this state at least for two years as a trial measure seemed a certainty when the senate, receding another step in its attitude, passed, 16 to 11, a bill by Senator Turnbull that would ban whipping of felony convicts forever and abolish it in the handling of state convicts for two years. The house passed a bill to abolish all whipping of convicts.

From Oil Derrick to Service Station

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station with its modern conveniences, economical operation, scientific management and quick, courteous attendants, is the last link in that complete chain of service, whose first link is the derrick in the oil fields.

The Service Station visualizes the thrift, the attention to detail, care in handling products and avoidance of waste, which are conspicuous in every branch of the Company's activities in producing, shipping, refining and distributing. These methods insure rigid economy in operation, thus enabling the Company to maintain a low price for its products.

The Service Station is the one link in the long chain which the motorist sees. It is the point of contact between the Company and the motoring public.

In locating these stations, extreme care is taken to see that they are so placed as to meet the convenience of the motorist. That this care is appreciated is made manifest by the increasing demand for extension of these facilities.

It is the ambition of this Company to have a Service Station so located that you can secure your requirements of its products, when and where you need them.

The next time you drive up to a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Service Station, observe carefully the way it is arranged, the facilities offered for your convenience, the high type of men acting as attendants, and the care and thoroughness with which they serve you.

By doing this you will be able to visualize that intangible factor—the ideals of service animating the 27,000 men and women who go to make up the personnel of this Company.
